OBITUARIES.

South Kansas Conference.

ISAAC HILL died in Americus, Kan., June 1, 1896. He was born in Ireland in 1841. Emigrating to this country he entered the Union army in 1861, and served until the close of the war, reaching the rank of lieutenant colonel. He was admitted to the Missouri Conference in 1866. He was transferred to the South Kansas Conference in 1880, and served the following charges: Harrisonville, Howard City, and Mound Valley. At the Conference of 1884 he took a supernumerary relation, and in 1886 became superannuated. In 1889 he was made effective, and afterward served Grenolia, Moline, Cottonwood Falls, Iola, and Americus. Here, on January 1, 1896, he was taken sick, and at the Conference in March was granted a superannuated relation. After five months of suffering death came suddenly, but not unexpectedly, and relieved him of his suffering. He bore his sickness with Christian patience, and the Christ he preached to others was his present help and Saviour to the end. His ministry was acceptable. He did his work well. He has received his crown.

Washington Conference.

CHARLES PRICE was born in Bedford County, Va., January 1, 1835. He was brought to Lynchburg, Va., by his parents, when quite young. In 1850 he was converted, and connected himself with the Church, South, where he remained until after the close of the war. In 1867, when the Jackson Street Methodist Episcopal Church was built, he became a member and was appointed class leader. In 1868 he was married, his wife dying a few months before himself. In 1868 he was licensed to preach, and in 1869 was admitted on trial in the Washington Conference. His successive appointments were as follows: Christianburg, Salem Station, Tazewell Circuit, New Hope Circuit, Rockbridge Circuit, Waterford Circuit, Pisgah Circuit, Woodville Circuit, Moorfield Circuit, Hillsboro, Hereford, Sykesville. In 1896 he was sent to Bedford Springs, Va., where he closed his labors, after an illness of two months, which was cheerfully borne. He died in great peace September 2, 1896.

GEORGE W. STANLEY was born in Dorchester County, Md., June 3, 1855. His father was a local preacher. In 1867 he was converted and joined the Church. He began his local ministry while living within the bounds of the Delaware Conference. In 1887 he removed to Baltimore, and joined the Metropolitan Church. He was admitted on trial in the Washington Conference in 1891, and was appointed to Williamsport, Md., where he served three years. In 1894–95 he was stationed at Liberty, Md. In 1896 he was appointed to Boyd's Circuit, Md., where he closed his labors on earth. He died in great peace February 6, 1897. His afflictions were long and severe, but he bore them with Christian resignation, and left an unclouded testimony to his friends that the Gospel is the power of God in saving from sin and the fear of death. On the morning of his death he said to his wife, "I am perfectly resigned to the will of God. I shall soon be at rest. I am going home." He leaves a wife and three children to mourn their loss. He was a man eminent in piety. His zeal in the cause of God was singular, his labors indefatigable, his success great.

Philadelphia Conference.

HENRY ENGARD GILROY was born in Mount Holly, N. J., January 11, 1821. He was converted in his thirteenth year, and joined the Church. Removing to Philadelphia, he became a member of Mariner's Bethel. At seventeen he received license to exhort, and a year later license to preach. In 1839 he served as a "supply" on Strasburg circuit. He was received on trial in the Philadelphia Conference in 1840, was admitted into full membership, and ordained deacon by Bishop Waugh, in 1842, and was ordained elder by Bishop Hedding in 1844. His active ministry was spent in the following appointments: Dauphin Circuit, Rising Sun, Cohocksink, Mauch Chunk, Milestown Circuit, New Market Street, Philadelphia; Sanctuary, Philadelphia; Port Carbon, Delaware, Dover, Md.; Delaware, Port Deposit, North East, Smyrna, Pottsville, Front Street, Philadelphia; Mariner's Bethel, Philadelphia; Mount Zion, Manayunk, Madison Street, Philadelphia; Chester, Lebanon, Asbury, Philadelphia; Sixteenth Street, Philadelphia; Cheltenham, Phœnixville, Paschalville, Bristol, Bridesburg. In 1886 he became supernumerary, in which relation he continued until his death. He was twice married, several children surviving. From 1886 to his death he resided in Chester, Pa., and for five years was connected with Madison Street, as "supernumerary with work." As a preacher he was strong and clear. He was emphatically a student of the Bible, and so preached the Gospel as to convince and persuade, as the revivals which attended his ministry abundantly prove. He was an efficient administrator and a faithful pastor. Though spared to see more than seventy-five years he never grew old in appearance or spirit. The closing years of his life were passed amid delightful surroundings and in the serenest peace. Honored by all who knew him, beloved by a wide circle of relatives, and favored with large manifestations of divine favor, he passed his days in service, study, meditation, and prayer, waiting the call to come up higher. At times during his last sickness his sufferings were extreme, but his peace was never broken. From his lips came expressions of holy confidence and inexpressible love for the Saviour. On the night of Friday, June 19, 1896, he peacefully passed to his home in heaven, leaving to his family the priceless heritage of a well-spent life, and to the Church the inspiration of his faithful ministry.

WILLIAM H. FRIES was born in Coventryville, Pa., August 21, 1832. His father, George Fries, was a local preacher for over fifty years. He was converted in his sixteenth year, and united with the Church at Coventryville. For several years he was engaged in teaching school. On January 1, 1861, he married Margaret Dennison, sister of the late J. B. Dennison, of the Philadelphia Conference. He was received on trial in the Philadelphia Conference in 1857, and was appointed junior preacher on Zion Circuit, Md. He was ordained deacon by Bishop Ames in 1859, and elder in 1861 by Bishop Janes. His subsequent appointments were St. George's Circuit, Merion Square, Brandywine, chaplain in the United States army for fifteen months, Marshalton, Newport, Bethel, Parryville, Darby, Millersburg, Grove, Middletown, Mahanoy City, South Easton, Bridesburg, Philadelphia;

Tasker, Philadelphia. During his second year at his last appointment failure of health compelled him to retire from effective work, and in 1891 he was granted a supernumerary relation. An attack of typhoid pneumonia terminated his earthly life September 21, 1896. He was a man thoroughly consecrated to the service of God. His preaching was plain, earnest, and evangelical. Many souls were led to Christ through his instrumentality. He leaves a widow, two sons, and two daughters to mourn his departure.

Henry White was born June 16, 1833, in Strasburg, Pa., and died in Tremont, January 6, 1897. He was converted when about twenty-three, during a revival at Willow Street, near Lancaster, in the fall of 1857. His devotion won for him the esteem of the people, and in due time he was licensed to exhort, and subsequently became a local preacher. In 1863 he was employed as junior preacher on the Castle Finn Circuit, East Baltimore Conference, and the following year as junior preacher on the Safe Harbor Circuit, Philadelphia Conference. In 1865 he had charge of Bainbridge. He was admitted on trial in the Philadelphia Conference in 1866, and was appointed to the Bainbridge and Falmouth Charge. His subsequent appointments were the following: Strasburg, Crozierville, Berrysburg and Oakdale, Williamstown, Nazareth, Philadelphia; Halifax, Portland, Port Carbon, Girardville, East Stroudsburg, supernumerary, supernumerary, and supplied Halifax; Tremont. He was a constant student of the word of God, and was very familiar with the Scriptures. He was accustomed to rise early, to increase the hours of study, and this habit prevailed through all his supernumerary years. He was a good man, and spent much time in prayer. He was an able and successful preacher, a diligent pastor, a judicious administrator, an agreeable companion, and a sincere friend. In his earlier ministry he compiled and published a Concordance to Dr. Adam Clarke's Commentary—a work which involved considerable labor. He was very methodical in his habits and much devoted to his work. His ministry was crowned with blessed revivals. For many years his life was marked by great suffering. The hand of affliction almost continuously rested upon his home. The physician was a daily visitor; but he bore all his afflictions with calm resignation. He was twice married. On the evening of his death he was engaged in a revival service, assisting the pastor. While thus engaged he felt a pain near his heart, and left the church to consult his physician. After partaking of some medicine he felt relieved, and started for his home, accompanied by his physician. As they were passing the depot, he suddenly fell on the pavement unconscious, and in a few minutes he "was not, for God took him."

Nathan D. Durell was born in Burlington, N. J., April 9, 1840, and died March 23, 1896. When but a boy of ten he was converted in a private home in Philadelphia, through the influence of his pious sister. Immediately connecting himself with New Market Street Church, now Front Street, he early gave evidence of devotion and gifts for the ministry. Having been duly licensed he was employed as a supply on Oxford Circuit in 1858, and in 1859 was admitted on trial in the Philadelphia Conference. His was not a lifeless discussion of cold abstractions, but of themes that had most to do with rousing and saving men, and with God's mighty leverage of truth he lifted many. His knowledge of Scripture was amazing. When evil was intrenched under the sanction of law he inveighed against it with burning vehemence. American slavery was to him something so horrible as to oppress his soul. He is recorded as one of the minority of thirty-five who voted nay to a proposition made in 1861 to repeal the chapter on slavery, and at that session of the Philadelphia Conference he was appointed to slave territory. He was a zealous foe of the liquor traffic, and struck heavy blows in favor of its prohibition. He was a good pastor, blessing homes with his sympathetic presence in times of trouble. The sign of the cross had been printed on him, not by priestly fingers, but by God's own hand. Always successful in winning souls, he never was more so than in the last year of his ministerial work. An armor-clad warrior, fully equipped, he met the last foe suddenly, while walking to one of the meetings of his Conference in 1896. Stricken with apoplexy, he never recovered consciousness. The gates of life swung open, and, clothed with immortality, he went in to look upon the face of his Lord.

William Marple Swindells was born in Marple, England, November 29, 1842. His great-grandfather, Robert Swindells, to whom Tyerman alludes five times in his life of John Wesley, was the traveling companion of the founder of Methodism, and, it is said, the first Methodist minister who preached in Ireland. His grandfather, William Swindells, was a local preacher in the Wesleyan Connection, and his father, James Swindells, was for more than sixty years a local preacher in England and America. The family came to this country in April, 1854, settled for a while in Philadelphia, and subsequently removing to Norristown, Pa., joined the Oak Street Church. Here three of the children were converted, William being one of them. This important event occurred March 18, 1859. He at once united with the Church, and before he was nineteen he sustained the relations of class leader, Sunday school superintendent, and exhorter. He was admitted to the Philadelphia Conference on trial in 1862. He was advanced to full membership and ordained deacon in 1864, and an elder in 1866. On September 5, 1865, he married Miss Melinda S. Brownback, who, with two daughters and two sons, now mourn his departure. His ministerial services were thus divided: Churchtown, New Philadelphia, Cornwall, Pottstown, Allentown, St. George's, Philadelphia; Western, Wharton Street. In 1879 he was appointed to the North Philadelphia District, which, after two years, by a readjustment was divided, and he was continued in charge of the Northwest District for two years longer. At the close of his term he reentered the pastorate, and was stationed at the Rehoboth Church, Paul Street, Frankford. Here he remained two years, and then became Presiding Elder of the South District. After serving four years in this capacity he was chosen superintendent of the hospital at Philadelphia. He occupied that position one year, and returned to the pastorate in 1890, being sent to the Kensington Church, which he served for four years. Thence he went to Seventh Street, and at the close of his first year was selected by the Tract Society to be its corresponding secretary, book agent, and also editor of the Philadelphia Methodist. In 1887 Dickinson College conferred upon him the degree of doctor of divinity, and subsequently elected him a trustee. For several years he was in charge of the Simpson Grove, Chester Heights, and Rawlinsville camp meetings, within the territory of the Philadelphia Conference, and for one season of the Moundsville camp meeting in West Virginia. He was elected to five successive General Conferences, those of 1880, 1884, 1888, 1892, and 1896. Early in his ministerial career, while at Cornwall, in the midst of a gracious revival there came to his soul a new revelation of the truth, a wonderful communication of spiritual power which was a directing force in all his after life. Many vigorous, sterling qualities of mind and heart distinguished him. His dignified but unostentatious carriage, his genial spirit, his loyalty in friendship, his hatred of shams, his devotion to God were recognized by all. He was preeminently an evangelical preacher, both in doctrine and discourse. Revivals attended his ministry wherever he went, and many persons were added to the Church. His most cogent efforts and peerless triumphs were associated with revival work and at the great camp meetings. As pastor, presiding elder, administrator of important trusts, and editor, he attained great success. His last sermon was at the Rawlinsville camp meeting, whither he had gone to fill an engagement. After delivering his message he took an open vehicle for the railway station. The air was chilly and he was insufficiently clad. He contracted a cold which finally developed into pneumonia and resulted fatally. At Ocean Grove, about five o'clock on Wednesday morning, September 9, 1896, as the sun was rising out of the sea, his emancipated spirit passed from the house of clay up into the light of God. We have no testimony of his last hours save the words he spoke during his sickness to a visitor: "I never was so weak in my life, but I have a good grip on the things of God." We need no further assurances with such a life before us and a ministry so fruitful. "He ceased at once to work and live," and his works do follow him.

North Indiana Conference.

Enos Pollard Church was born in Richland County, O. In early life he was bereft of his parents. His guardian was Governor G. M. Bartly, of Ohio. He married Elizabeth A. Thomas April 20, 1873, who died December 6, 1878. On September 1, 1881, he married Mary J. Zimmerman, who died October 3, 1893. He was converted at the age of eighteen, and united with the Church. He was licensed to preach August 7, 1852, was ordained deacon in 1857, and elder in 1859. The following were his appointments: Bango, Middlebury, Benton, North Manchester, Middlebury again, Antioch, Coesse, Ossian, New Paris, South Whitley, and Larwill. At the Conference of 1893 he was superannuated. His death took place at the home of his daughter, Mrs. Rev. J. A. Beatty, in the parsonage at Warsaw, Ind., October 23, 1896. Three children remain to do him honor, two of them being Chester W. Church, a member of the North Indiana Conference, and Ina M., wife of J. A. Beatty, of the same Conference. He was a blessed man, a faithful and successful pastor, a good preacher.

Adam Hall Currie was born in the north of Ireland, January 14, 1836, and died at Michigan City, Ind., November 3, 1896. He married Amelia Jane Barrie August 26, 1862. He entered the traveling connection in 1865, and was ordained deacon in 1867 by Bishop Ames, and elder in 1869 by Bishop Simpson. He was actively engaged in the pastorate from 1865 to 1895, at which time he accepted the chaplaincy of the prison of Indiana. It was while here that the Master called him home. His appointments were as follows: Monmouth, Perrysburg, Cicero, Jerome, Alto, Sharpsville, Xenia, Orland, Fremont, Leo, Harlan, Windfall, New Britton, and Windfall for four months in 1895. He was a faithful pastor and successful in building up the Church. His work as a chaplain was peculiarly successful. His wife and children are left to miss the good companion and kind father.

John S. McElwee was born in Preble County, O., January 29, 1840, and died in Kokomo, Ind., August 2, 1896. At the age of fifteen he joined the Church. In 1871 he was admitted on trial in the North Indiana Conference. On October 25, 1874, he married Laurinda Mathews. One son, still living, is with his mother. He served the following charges: South Whitley, Milford, Osceola, Arcola, Harlan, Santa Fe, Jerome, Point Isabella, New Waverly, Walton, Goldsmith, Westfield, Cicero, Bunker Hill, Frankton, and Yorktown. An affectionate husband and tender father and a good preacher has gone.

New York Conference.

Charles Henry Travis was born in Peru, N. Y., October 17, 1837, and died in Woodstock, N. Y., June 8, 1896, where he was serving his third year as pastor. He was the son of Judge Travis, of Clinton County, and enjoyed the advantages of good parentage and intellectual surroundings. He was converted at sixteen, and after finishing an academic course, entered Union Theological Seminary. Circumstances required him to leave and engage in teaching before finishing his course. When the rebellion broke out he enlisted in the Sixty-second New York Volunteers, Anderson Zouaves. He served through the war, received several wounds, and was promoted to the office of sergeant. At the close of the war he received a government appointment in the Treasury Department at Alexandria, Va. He here married Jane Podgett, who died a few years later, leaving two children. Some time after this he returned to New York and engaged in business. He connected himself with the Forsyth Street Church, was licensed as a local preacher, and continued his preparations for the ministry. His first appointment was under the presiding elder as assistant preacher at Bronxdale, N. Y. In 1873 he joined the New York Conference, and about that time married Emily O. Potter, who, with six children, survives. His appointments were as follows: Little York, East Jewett, Jefferson, Coeymans, and South Bethlehem, Fergusonville and Charlotteville, Eminence, Jefferson, Pine Hill, and Woodstock. The men and women brought into the Church through his instrumentality are to be found on every charge he served, and the number is not small. A short time after the Conference of 1896 he was threatened with pneumonia, but continued to fill his appointments until totally unable to do so. The disease made rapid progress, and although he seemed to rally for a time complications set in, and he soon passed away, a martyr to his love of work. His remains were buried at Woodstock, amid the shadows of the Catskills, in whose vicinity he had spent nearly all of his ministerial life, preaching and singing the Gospel of Jesus Christ. Nature had endowed him with many gifts. He had a pleasing presence, a great affectionate heart, and a cheerful, happy disposition. He was an acceptable preacher, at times brilliant and powerful. He drew his lessons from experience and human nature, and clothed truth in beautiful garments and glowing colors. He was a successful evangelist, a powerful exhorter, and a wonderful singer, and for months held revival meetings at his various appointments, doing all of the preaching and exhorting and much of the singing. He was a sympathetic pastor, and spent much of his time in visits among his people. His Conference loved him as a brother and appreciated him as an earnest worker in the kingdom of God.

Morris De Camp Crawford was born on February 19, 1819, in Albany, N. Y., and was the fourth son of the Rev. Joseph and Mary Barker Crawford. A few years later we find the family in New York city, and members of the Allen Street Church, where young Morris was scholar, teacher, librarian, president of the Youth's Missionary Society, secretary of the school, and superintendent—all before he was seventeen. At the early age of eleven years he went to business. The year before, in the great revival of 1828–29, his older brother and himself were converted. For ten years business claimed him by day and books chiefly by night. When nearly twenty-one he was startled to hear himself licensed as an exhorter. His brother Elijah was one of the preachers on Marbletown Circuit, and there in December—he was to be twenty-one in February—while helping his brother, he was made a local preacher. That spring he was received on trial in the New York Conference and regularly appointed to the Marbletown Circuit. After serving there one year, another at Plattekill, and a third at Rossville, he married in 1844 Miss Charlotte Holmes, and was stationed at Rondout. He then served Middletown, Ninth Street and Eighteenth Street, New York; Sing Sing, Peekskill, Washington Street, Poughkeepsie; Trinity Church, New York, two years, thus covering his first twenty years as a Methodist preacher. The names of the conspicuous men into whose fellowship that winter on Marbletown Circuit by the grace of God introduced him, cannot all be repeated here. The Troy and New York East Conferences had not been set off, and that senate of notable men was large enough to furnish leaders for half a dozen Annual Conferences. See the shadows these men cast as their names are called: Laban Clark, Nathan Bangs, Daniel Ostrander, Heman Bangs, Robert Seney, Billy Hibbard, Daniel D. Whedon, Seymour Landon, Stephen Martindale, Bradley Sellick, Benjamin Griffen, Peter P. Sandford, John Kennaday, Samuel D. Ferguson, Phineas Rice, John J. Matthias, Daniel De Vinne, Marvin Richardson, Buel Goodsell, Charles W. Carpenter, James Floy, Stephen Olin, Joseph Holdich, George Coles, Daniel Smith, John McClintock, and Paul R. Brown. How apt a scholar he was, and how worthy a successor may be indicated by the influence he wielded in the great antislavery controversy, while holding the respect of his most positive antagonists, and by the charm and tenderness with which he spoke again and again at the funerals of these princes. He was from the beginning a radical with conservative principles. He was a Wesleyan of the deepest conviction, and an ardent lover of the free grace of the fathers. But he fell on times not utterly calm. Echoes of Newman and Maurice, of Carlyle and Emerson, of Parker and Bronson, of Schleiermacher and De Wette reached him. An early friend wanted him to read certain essays. "No," he answers; "I've no time for mere speculations." He was at his Conference studies then; but all of Emerson and Carlyle were on his shelves, all of Robertson, enough of Martineau and Maurice to show they were not strangers, and alongside the great commentators, our own and others, with Chillingworth and Barrow and Taylor. The temper of his mind had to work out. He had to know both sides if he knew one. He grew with every year, and when most men begin to narrow he was merely well under way, coming to live far more in to-morrow than in yesterday. His radicalism was the more significant that it was never merely experimental, never a mere love of controversy and agitation. Of lay delegation he was frankly doubtful till he saw that the Church wanted it, then he voted heartily for it. On the other hand he championed the institution of deaconesses in the very front ranks of its advocates. Straight as his back was, keenly poised his head, and busy his mind with complicated questions, no face was more luminously cordial, no hand more hearty in its grasp. He was not the man to go about with praises and promises, but who ever championed a brother with more resonant tone or gave more generously when a cause needed active friends? He was the type of men of whom great merchants, great counselors, great bankers, great statesmen are made. Six times he went as delegate to the General Conference, and three times he was chosen as reserve. Four times he was presiding elder. He served as trustee of his Conference through more than a generation, and college, seminary, university were as glad of his services. His moral fiber was, after all, his most notable element. He had the power to accept any measure of opprobrium, to absorb it in silence, if he could save some one whom he esteemed some deeper pain. His sensitiveness made it almost impossible for him deliberately to say a condemnatory word of any who was or had been his friend. He could ache and pass sleepless nights, and tears might drip from his speech, but one watched and waited in vain for the word which the case seemed to demand. After the death of his wife he walked the earth like a ghost for months. One doubts if even sleep forgot his awful grief. A little more than a year ago something seemed to be eating away his power to recuperate, and for the first time in his hard fight it seemed to be going against him. It was a long, disappointing illness. Yet he did not lose his love of life, his love of the earth, his love of human problems. His voice was buoyant when he said, "It is all in God's hands now, and I am satisfied. I am ready when he shall say the word." The day before the end he had his dailies about him, and sat late into the evening with his favorite one in hand. Vital, patient, peaceful were those last days. On Tuesday morning, November 24, 1896, came his call. There was a short battle. Then he became as still as a child whom his father is lifting, and in half an hour one of the wisest, most trusted, and most useful men that Methodism has produced was fallen on sleep.

George R. Crooks was born in Philadelphia February 3, 1822, and went to his reward February 20, 1897. His boyhood days were spent in the city of his birth. From Dickinson College he graduated with the highest honors in 1840. The following year he traveled the Canton Circuit in Illinois. In 1842 he was called by his alma mater to the position of Classical and Mathematical Tutor in the Collegiate Grammar School. From 1843 to 1848 he was Principal of the Grammar School, and from 1846 to 1848 Adjunct Professor of Latin and Greek in Dickinson College. In 1843, while instructor at the Grammar School, he was admitted to the Philadelphia Conference. In 1848 he resigned at Dickinson, and served successively the following appointments in the Philadelphia Conference: Dauphin, Pottstown, Trinity and St. John's, Philadelphia; and St. John's, Wilmington. In 1857 he was transferred to the New York East Conference and stationed at Seventeenth Street, New York; Washington Avenue, Brooklyn; Sands Street, Brooklyn; Seventeenth Street again; Flushing, Mamaroneck. From 1860 to 1870, in addition to the work of his pastorates, he edited The Methodist. From 1870 to 1875 he held the supernumerary relation and gave himself wholly to the interests of his paper. In 1875, feeling that he had accomplished the work for which he had assumed the management of The Methodist, he returned to the pastorate. In 1876 he was transferred to the New York Conference, and for three years was pastor of St. Paul's Church, Tarrytown. During 1879 and 1880 he was stationed at St. Paul's, Peekskill. In 1880 he was elected to the chair of Historical Theology in Drew Theological Seminary, which position he filled from 1881 until summoned to his reward. One element of his greatness was his amazing versatility. He supplemented nature's lavish gifts by the most scrupulous mental discipline. He was a painstaking student all his life. His mind grasped at once the smallest detail and the vastest system. The sweep of his intellect was like the eagle's flight. He seemed to know everything and to know it from every side. One could not help wondering how he had found time to read and think so widely. His mind was rapacious of all good literature, and he was at home anywhere. In poetry, in fiction, in travels, in biography, and in philosophy he was an adept. It was a remark frequently heard at the seminary that he could fill any chair in the institution, and do it ably. While Adjunct Professor at Dickinson conjointly with Dr. McClintock he issued a series of Latin and Greek text-books, which were popular for many years. A little later he and Professor A. J. Schem published a Latin-English School Lexicon, which is still widely used in our universities. In those early years he also made an analysis of Butler's Analogy, which has been of great value. In 1876 he issued The Life of Dr. McClintock, now a classic in our Methodist literature. He also wrote in later years The Life of Bishop Simpson, and edited a volume of his sermons. He was coeditor with Bishop Hurst on "The Biblical and Theological Library," and was himself the author of The Theological Encyclopædia and Methodology. He was a member of the American Committee for the Revision of the New Testament, and wrote the introduction to Matthew for the American edition of Meyer's Commentary. He was also a frequent contributor to the Church periodicals and to Harper's Weekly and the New York Tribune, and for some time had charge of the Tribune's religious department. As a writer and editor he was luminous; as a preacher he was spiritual, impassioned, and magnetic; as a scholar he was accurate and progressive; as a leader he was safe and self-sacrificing; as a teacher he was inspiring; as a gentleman he was courtly; as a friend he was genial; as a man he was Christlike. A second element of his greatness was the intense moral purpose of his life. Many a man of his fine sensibilities and wide classic learning would have retired to the pursuit of culture. But he ever recognized his obligation to serve the Church of his choice. With the fullness of his vast information he threw himself into the rough-and-tumble of our Church life with the spirit of an athlete. It was his to become the successful champion of ideas which were unpopular in the Church. Among these may be mentioned the question of ministerial education. He found the spirit of the Church unfriendly to the theological training of its ministers. The distinction was sharply drawn between God-made and man-made ministers. "He who calls will qualify" was the faith of all Methodists. As a member of the General Conference of 1856 he was on the Committee of Education. With the cooperation of Dr. Edward Thomson and Dr. John Dempster he secured the adoption of a report sanctioning the founding of theological schools in the Church. Thus the sentiment was turned, which, with advancing years, has crystallized in a well-nigh universal demand for an educated ministry. In 1866, as a member of the special Centennial Committee on Education, he originated a plan to establish a permanent fund for the education of the youth of Methodism, and to him belongs the honor of the origination of the idea of Children's Day. But a survey of his achievements would be strangely incomplete without mention of lay representation in the General Conference. A writer conversant with the facts says that he "was the very life and soul of this movement." A third element of his greatness was his high ideals and his unwavering devotion to their realization. So completely was he ruled by them that popular approval and ecclesiastical preferment had no charm for him; the vital and the permanent held him spellbound. Policy was a word not found in his vocabulary. Principle was a word to which he clung closely all his life. At the conclusion of a discussion on Wordsworth he remarked, "I have written the closing stanzas of Wordsworth's 'Ode to Duty' in living letters upon my soul." This element of his character gave his personality a peculiar charm in the class room. Students felt instinctively the spell of his noble manhood. He was clear and cogent in his statements of truth, but he taught more by what he was than by what he said. He always stood for the best things in culture and character. The attainment of these by his students was the greatest joy of his later years. To be a worthy Methodist minister was to his mind the highest honor on earth. It was when he sought to inspire his students with the nobility of their calling that he was at his best. Who that ever witnessed them can forget those moments in the recitation room when he seemed to take the class upon his heart into the very presence of the great white throne? At such times his face shone with the light of that higher world, and became a shrine at which devout souls worshiped. He married the daughter of Bishop Emory. A few years ago she joined the circle on the heavenly side. Four daughters survive, two of whom reside in England and two in this country. During the last days he said, "If I had my life to live over again I would do just the same." He still lives in the example he has set and the inspiration he has given to others. Sixteen classes of alumni feel the thrill of his great personality as they preach the Gospel in all lands. In their hearts he is enshrined so long as life itself shall last.

Alexander Hamilton Ferguson was born in Paterson, N. J., August 16, 1818, and passed to heaven February 5, 1897. He was soundly converted, and joined the Methodist Episcopal Church at twelve, though his parents were members of the Presbyterian Church. His call to preach he obeyed as a local preacher for some years before his way was open to go forth as an itinerant. On November 25, 1840, in New York city, where he was engaged as a bookkeeper by the Methodist Book Concern, he married Miss Mary Lavinia Decker, who, in her widowhood, now has the assurance that she did what she could to make his ministry a success. He was a good preacher, a diligent pastor, and a wise administrator. He studied to show himself "approved unto God, a workman that needeth not to be ashamed, rightly dividing the word of truth." The seals to his ministry were many, and will shine as stars in his crown forever. He was specially honored of his brethren, as well as of God, during his membership of nearly fifty-one years in the New York Conference. Two of these years, 1862–63, he served most acceptably as secretary. Thrice he was appointed presiding elder, and in 1868 was elected a delegate to the General Conference. His patriotism led him to give himself to a three months' service at the front as a member of the Christian Commission during the Rebellion. His first appointment was New Canaan, Conn., in 1846–47. In 1848 his appointments were New Concord, Spencertown and Chatham Corners, Hillsdale, Pine Plains, North East, Falls Village, Brewster, Amenia, and Poughquag. From 1863 to 1866 inclusive he was Presiding Elder of the Rhinebeck District, and in 1867–70 served the Ellenville District. In the spring of 1871 he returned to the pastorate and spent eleven more years in that relation, as follows: Saugerties, Central Church, Yonkers; Hudson, Wappinger's Falls, and Saugerties again. In 1882 he was appointed presiding elder of the Poughkeepsie District, and served the full term thereon. During the closing months of this service, in the winter of 1885 and spring of 1886 he was prostrated by illness, and it was thought that his useful life had reached its end. But he rallied sufficiently to be at the Conference of 1886, when, at his own request, his brethren voted him a superannuated relation. He never fully regained his strength. But, as long as he could be about, he engaged with great delight to himself and to the edification of others, in whatever religious services he could attend, preaching the word whenever his way was open so to do. The last years of his life were spent with his married daughter in Brooklyn, N. Y., and in association with the Hanson Place and St. John's churches as being most accessible to his places of residence. In both of these churches he greatly endeared himself to the membership. For many years he was deeply interested in the highest forms of religious experience that he believed were taught in the word of God. He frequently took occasion to testify to his purpose of complete consecration to God and his service. His last illness found him in full anticipation of his departure. During his confinement some of his most intimate friends and associates in the ministry passed away; and this helped to impress him that his days were numbered. He would, at times, give vent aloud to his bliss, when committed to the Lord in prayer at his bedside. The reading of choice selections from the Bible and the quotation of favorite hymns filled him with delight. He greatly desired to be delivered from acute suffering at the last. This wish was most signally granted, for, on the morning of his departure, and when it was not particularly looked for by his attendant, he quietly closed his eyes and was at rest. In the city of Hudson, N. Y., his chosen place of interment, his flesh awaits the resurrection of the just.

WILLIAM WELLINGTON ALEXANDER was born in Harford, Susquehanna County, Pa., January 16, 1864, and entered upon the immortal life March 5, 1897. There is no disagreement among those who knew him concerning the essence of his character. He had only friends; he never had an enemy. For more than thirteen years—from the time he left the farm with a frame of oak, the soul of a saint, and no other purpose save to be the Father's child and do the Father's will—he trod with rare perfection the shining pathway of the Son of God. There was not a single note of bitterness or temper in his speech, and he surely never had an unkind thought or spoke an unjust word of mortal man. He spent three years of college preparation at Wyoming Seminary, where he was true and earnest, and endeared himself to faculty and students. At Wesleyan University as a diligent student and influential Christian man he impressed his noble character upon his college mates. His three years at East Greenwich Academy as teacher and vice principal were years of splendid beginnings. The power of his consecrated personality was felt all through the school. A wave of revival swept the institution, due largely to his influence. He then came to New York city to spend two years at Union Theological Seminary, in special preparation for his lifework. God followed him to the metropolis. For two years he lived at Yonkers, one year as assistant pastor. His first year in the regular work of the New York Conference he was sent to the church at Glenville. God put him there—that was his theory—and he buckled on the armor. The church edifice was old and poor. By his own effort he secured from some of the wealthy men of Tarrytown almost the entire sum needed for the rehabilitation and transformation of the structure. When the winter came on he laid his plans for a revival. He spent his days in the homes of the people and his nights in prayer. Soon the Spirit of God was manifest in the congregation in a wonderful manner. Whole families met at the altar, and before the year closed he had practically brought the whole of that little community under the influence of the Gospel. He remained there but one year, and was then called to be the first associate pastor in the Central Metropolitan Temple, New York city. His brief ten-months' record there was useful and beautiful. His heroic, conscientious labor in a vast field rapidly drained the energy, sympathy, and strength of such a great soul as he. And he poured himself out a too willing sacrifice. He thought he could endure anything, and those who knew his splendid physical power thought so too. "Time worketh, let me work too. Time undoeth, O, let me do. Sin worketh, let me work too. Sin undoeth, O let me do. Death worketh, let me work too. Death undoeth, O let me do—till I rest in the rest of eternity." This came to be the constant cry of his heart. He wore himself out in the toil of love, so that he was not able, as he might otherwise have been, to resist the hot breath of the deadly fever. He was a rare soul, sunny in disposition, faithful in friendship, quiet in temper, wise in judgment, patient in his ministry, deeply spiritual, absolutely unselfish, wholly consecrated to his Master's service. If there is eternal safety in the Christ life then he is eternally safe.

CHARLES H. MCANNEY was born at East Port Chester, Conn., February 12, 1857, and died October 6, 1896. At ten years of age his parents settled in New Jersey. From boyhood he hungered for education, but his opportunities were meager during his early youth. He worked in grocery, brickyard, and glass factory; but studied in his hours of respite from menial toil. At nineteen he was thoroughly converted, and determined to avail himself of the best advantages, that he might be fully fitted for the ministry, to which he believed himself called. At twenty he was thrust out to preach for a single year, his salary consisting of his board and seventy-eight dollars. At twenty-one he entered Pennington Seminary to prepare for college, with a financial capital of one dollar. Here he remained a single year, and then entered Dickinson Seminary. The professor of elocution at that seminary, Miss Lulu M. Jones, afterward became his wife. In 1881 he entered De Pauw University, graduating with high honors in 1885. By the unanimous vote of the faculty he was invited to deliver the master's oration, when in 1888 he took his degree of master of arts. While in college he filled with marked success two appointments at Fillmore and Battle Ground, in the Indiana Conference. Upon graduation, in 1885, he joined the New Jersey Conference, his first appointment being at Princeton, where he resurrected a dying church. He saw over two hundred souls converted, the edifice crowded at every service, hundreds of students coming to hear him, and the faculty as well as students of Princeton University numbered among his friends. Long Branch was his next pastorate, where in a few weeks seventy-five were added to the church by conversion. In 1889 he was transferred to the New York Conference, and stationed at Washington Square Church, New York city. In January, 1890, he met with an accident which developed a valvular disease of the heart, from which he never permanently recovered. During this illness his anxiety to do more work was such that he once said to God, "I'd be willing to pull weeds if I might stay in the vineyard a while longer." He came back to a meager measure of health, but knew that he must crawl where he had heretofore run. But he was exultingly happy to be able to preach at all. In 1891 he was stationed at St. Paul's Church, Tarrytown. Crowds attended on his ministry, and two extensive revivals more than doubled the membership during his pastorate. In April, 1895, he was stationed at Mount Kisco, where the church immediately assumed new courage and strength. He preached his last sermon September 6, 1896, when he hardly possessed strength enough to stand in his place. Terrific suffering filled his vacation days. On October 6 the end suddenly came. Turning his face to his wife, he laid his head on her bosom, closed his eyes, and "was not, for God took him." For six years he was a martyr. Impatient by nature, he was sweetly and beautifully patient by grace. He leaves a widow, whom he took as wife in 1885, and two sons. Such was his individuality that he will never be compared with any other man. His was a genius of the first order, and it was often set on fire by the flames of Pentecost. His poetic imagination was frequently kindled to white heat by the Holy Ghost. He was the incarnation of honor and courage, and was indignantly disappointed when he did not find these same qualities in others. Any pulpit in his denomination in the land would have been open to him with his great gifts if he had cultivated expediency as a profitable grace. To a people capable of understanding him and appreciating his real character he was the prophet and priest of God. Life to him was pregnant with import. The beauties and inspirations of nature rushed in upon his soul through every avenue of sense. Landscape, music, odors, ranged freely and often riotously through the corridors of his being. He discerned "Tongues in trees, books in the running brooks, sermons in stones, and good in everything."

Liberia Conference.

JAMES H. DEPUTIE was born at Barre Forge, Pa., May 8, 1838. In 1853 he sailed for Liberia, and reached Monrovia in December. His father moved to Marshall, and in September, 1855, James was converted, and united with the Church. He taught a mission school at Marshall, but desiring an academic education applied for admission in the Monrovia Seminary. Bishop Burns, however, needed a teacher for the mission school at Robertsport, and sent him there. President Benson also appointed him at the same time to take charge of the colonization school. He was licensed to exhort in 1858, and on October 20, 1859, married Mary Jane Dent. He was licensed to preach in 1860, and in 1865 united with the Liberia Conference and received his first appointment to a mission station in the Vey country. In 1866 he was stationed at Mount Olives, a mission among the Bassa tribe. Sickness here occurred in his family, and being far away from medical attendance he applied himself to the study of medicine and became his own family doctor, as well as rendering great relief to those around. In 1867 he was ordained deacon by Bishop Roberts, and elder in 1869. Bishop Haven appointed him Presiding Elder of the Bassa District in 1876, where he served acceptably and faithfully for twenty years. He was also twice appointed Presiding Elder of the Cape Palmas District, and when he resigned in 1896 the people did not willingly give him up after so long a service among them, for they loved him. No disadvantages in traveling, rain, or sunshine could deter him when duty called. "I would rather wear out than rust out," was his adage. He visited the United States in 1877, on leave of absence, and was gone from his work ten months, returning to his field of labor with renewed zeal. He was sent as ministerial delegate to the General Conference in 1888. An attack of la grippe at Careysburg, in 1892, left him with serious bronchial troubles, but he still persevered in his work, with the aid of the brethren of the district. He was a lover of study and a great reader; he possessed a strong memory, which enabled him to retain all he read. He perhaps kept up a constant correspondence with more persons in the United States than any one man in Liberia. For many years he regularly subscribed for more than ten Church papers and other periodicals, secular and religious. While in the United States, in 1888, he solicited funds to aid in building a substantial brick church at Mount Olive. With these means and aid from friends in Liberia he succeeded in putting up a commodious edifice. For four years his health had been visibly failing, yet, though often entreated to take rest, he would reply, "No rest this side the river." For some years he was chairman of the Provisional Court at Marshall, and was commissioned as associate justice of the Supreme Court, while attending the Conference of 1896, where he was also elected delegate to the General Conference of 1896. On his return home his family was much worried at the proposition to go to the United States, as he was constantly growing weaker; but their disapproval of his attempt to make such a long voyage was met with, "It is the Lord's work, and I would be unworthy of his blessing did not I attempt to go. Every preparation was made for his leaving on March 10. On Sunday, March 1, he attended a love feast, and though almost too weak to stand, baptized eight persons. He was then carried to the river in a chair and witnessed the baptism of eight others. At the afternoon service he baptized an infant, and thus closed his long official work. On the Sunday following many of the church members came to bid him good-bye, and to many of them he gave charges concerning the work. On Monday night he said, "I will not be able to go to Monrovia," and called his daughter and told her to write his substitute to that effect, and tell him "not to disappoint the Church, but go to the General Conference." Later on he said, "I'll not go to Monrovia in the morning, but I shall die." On Tuesday morning he bade the children go and have prayers, laid down on his bed, and in a few moments passed quietly into the glorious world above. He left a sorrowing wife, three sons, and three daughters to mourn him. He died March 10, 1896, the very day he had appointed to leave home for Monrovia, en route for America. He was secretary of the Liberia Conference for many years, and was efficient in the discharge of this duty.

Newark Conference.

JOHN WESLEY SERAN was born in Frederica, Del., May 3, 1824. His father died while he was a lad, and the care of the widowed mother with several children fell in a large measure on him, the task resulting in a shock of his nervous system from which he never recovered. His mother was a woman of exceptional strength of character—a typical matron of the olden Methodism. Through her influence he found the Saviour in his thirteenth year. The pastor at Glassboro, N. J., which was the home of the family, was so impressed with his mature spirit and unusual gift of speech that he set him to exhorting in the prayer meeting and the neighboring chapels. Certain wealthy brethren, perceiving that the Spirit of the Lord was upon him, desired to give him a liberal education. But he could not be spared from his mother's home. He was never under an instructor in a school, altogether, more than four months. But his gifts would have suffered under artificial culture, like the Egyptian lotus, which come to their best only in the waters of their native Nile. He was trained in the school of experience, where nature, rather than art, triumphed. Out of this school he came with a mind free from conventional restraint, and an imagination warm, luxuriant, wild, and as fragrant as the sweetbrier by a country wayside. In 1849 he was called to fill a vacancy on Atlantic Circuit, in the New Jersey Conference. The following spring he was admitted to the Conference and appointed to New Egypt Circuit. His later appointments were as follows: Clinton, Delaware Circuit, Rome and Wantage, Barryville, Vienna, Wantage again, Tranquility, North Haverstraw, Hackensack, Dover; First Church, Phillipsburg; Union Street, Newark; Linden Avenue, Jersey City; Elizabeth Avenue, Elizabeth; Second Church, Rahway; Palisade Church, Jersey City; Davis Memorial, Newark; Springfield, Dunellen. In 1891 he was compelled by his infirmity to retire from his work. His cruel paralysis continued until it was impossible for him to rise from his chair without the severest effort. But he was never known to murmur. When asked what was his greatest affliction he replied, "That I can never again preach the great Gospel to sinning and suffering men." He was asked if he wished for the rest of heaven, and answered, "When I was in the active ministry I had a dread of being sent where I was not wanted. I am not wanted in heaven, else my Father would send for me." He continued to fail until September 14, 1896, when he rested from his labors. He had but few books, but those he devoured with ravenous hunger. He mastered the German tongue sufficiently to preach with fluency in that speech. He read his New Testament in the original Greek. He was fond of popular science, and had a healthful view of its principles. He delighted in Wesley, Fletcher, Watson, and Clarke, and was at home in Wesleyan dogmatics. His sermons were characterized by pure Gospel truth, flaming imagery, and impassioned utterance. Think of multiplied phrases such as these, from a sermon of his, all of them flashing from a single thought like the flying fragments of an exploding meteor: "The creak of the unoiled hinges of hell's adamantine gates;" "The scream of the death angel;" "The blush of the morning;" "The tears of heaven falling under her rainbow brow;" "The hoarse blast of Heaven's high displeasure." Think of multiplied sentences such as this, following each other in bewildering succession: "The redeemed of the Lord steps from the hills of time to the mountains of eternity, and as he approaches the glorious heavens the pearly gates swing back upon their golden hinges, and a rapturous welcome rings through the arches of his eternal home." In his pastoral work he was peculiarly successful. His churches were watered gardens. He was twice married. In character he was ingenuous, unselfish, patient, trustful. Within and above all he was and did his absorbing passion was Jesus. Truthfully did he say, "For me to live is Christ." No one who knew him can question that for him to die was gain. We cannot refrain from taking one of his own sentences and applying it to him: "His chariot wheels roll over the threshold of the gates of pearl and up the avenues of immortality amid the long ranks of harpers harping their harps and the shouts and songs of cherubim and seraphim, with the smile of the Lord illuminating the whole."

George Miller was born in New York city, November 26, 1840, and died at Little Falls, N. J., November 15, 1896. When he was nine years old his father settled at Mount Horeb, N. J., where he engaged in farming. Here were passed twelve years of young Miller's life, except one year spent in a dry goods house in New York. His love of books developed very early, and their persistent use in early life made him the scholar and linguist he was in his ripe manhood. On October 10, 1861, he joined the Fifth Regiment of New York Cavalry. After more than three years of arduous service he was honorably discharged with his regiment at Cedar Creek, October 20, 1864. He seemed to possess a charmed life, for he passed through seventy-six skirmishes and battles without receiving a wound. The winter of 1864, after his return from the army, was spent at his father's home, where he began the study of the law. But God had a different career marked out for the young soldier. In 1866 he was converted during a gracious revival in Mount Horeb. He soon became active in church work, entered Pennington Seminary, and graduated from Drew Theological Seminary in 1869. He was admitted into the New York Conference in 1869, but at once transferred to the Newark Conference, and served the following appointments: Hibernia, Whippany, Walpack Center, Greenville and Centerville, Andover, Stanhope and Waterloo, Saint Mark's, Staten Island; Franklin, Stanton and Allerton, Sparta, Little Falls, where he ceased work in the very strength of his manhood. He had often said if he could have his way it would be to go from work to reward. God gave him this desire. His sickness was but of a few hours' duration. Taken ill of pneumonia at eight in the evening, he was released from suffering at three the following morning. When informed that his condition was serious he said: "It seems to me the end has come. And if it should be so, and I sink into unconsciousness, I want to tell you now it is all right with me. I am ready." To his youngest son, a lad of sixteen, he said, "Read for me from the Bible." The young man read the 121st Psalm. The mother then led the little circle in prayer, asking for help in that trying hour. The help came. The spirit of the husband and father took its flight to a better world. He married Catherine Bowers November 26, 1865. She is left with her four living children to mourn her loss. No sketch of his life would be complete which did not notice his literary ability and work. He was comprehensive in research, careful and exact in statement. Few, either of his parishioners or brethren, were aware of the valuable work which he so successfully carried on. With him it was a sense of duty and the sincere desire to benefit others. His first work, after entering Drew Seminary, was in helping to prepare a German grammar. Subsequently he was associated with the late Dr. James Strong on the McClintock and Strong Encyclopædia, on which he labored unceasingly until its completion, rendering most valuable service in producing that "monumental work." He was also long engaged with Dr. Strong in preparing a dictionary, which was intended to be a standard authority. A remarkable fact in his ministry was that this arduous literary labor never interfered with his efficiency as a preacher and pastor. In both of these relations he was a pattern. While engaged in a line of work which carried him out of the beaten paths, he was enabled to keep in touch with those about him, and had the fullest fellow-feeling with his surroundings. His pulpit efforts were acceptable in a preeminent degree. He was one of those who, though possessed of rare endowments, was willing to work in comparative obscurity to polish gems that might enable others to become illustrious. Yet he labored without apparent dissatisfaction with the dispensation which came to him.

Sanford Van Benschoten was born in Dutchess County, N. Y., May 28, 1832, and died at Passaic, N. J., December 18, 1896. He was educated at the college in Lima, N. Y., and prepared for the ministry at the Concord Biblical Institute. He entered the East Genesee Conference in 1858. His first charge was at Lyons, N. Y., where in 1858 he married Ellen, daughter of Rev. Dr. J. G. Gulick, of Rochester, whose association he enjoyed until the close of life. His second charge was at Penn Yan, N. Y.; afterward he served charges at Rochester and Elmira with marked success. In 1868 he was transferred to the Newark Conference, and became pastor of Saint James Church, Elizabeth, N. J. He afterward served Saint Luke's Church, Newark; Emory Church, Jersey City, and Morristown, N. J. From Morristown he was transferred to the New Jersey Conference and became pastor of the State Street Church. He then returned to the Newark Conference and was appointed to Passaic. He then became Presiding Elder of the Elizabeth District, which he served four years. He then served the Newark District six years, and in 1894 was appointed Presiding Elder of the Paterson District, and in the discharge of his duties on that district fell asleep in Jesus. He was a man full of faith and of the Holy Ghost, and under his ministry many people were added to the Lord. One who knew him intimately has said that "the memory of his holy life is indeed a precious legacy. I never saw a flaw to mar or dim the luster of his Christian character." He was endowed by nature and by grace with winsome qualities. He knew the way to human hearts, and entered them with freedom. Those who were his parishioners will remember him not only as a pastor, but as a choice, personal friend. He did not lightly hold his command to preach, but gave himself to it with all his powers. He brought "beaten oil into the sanctuary." His sermons were characterized by clearness, vigor, logic, evangelism. There was a certain pathos about his preaching which made him especially a minister to the sorrowing. He knew the Gospel story, and told it in choice language and with the deep conviction that he was the voice of a divine message to his hearers. For the eighth of a century he occupied the position of presiding elder. In an office of great delicacy and difficulty, he conducted it with unquestioned wisdom. Fidelity was a marked characteristic of his life. Few men have given themselves more entirely to the work committed to them. His pastoral life absorbed him. To his presiding eldership he consecrated himself with a persistence and a fidelity in which he had few equals. His devotion to his work during his sickness was a marvel. He called to his aid brethren who cheerfully did what they could to lighten his burdens, but the Paterson District was conducted largely from his sick bed. He twice represented his Conference in the General Conference. Those associated with him at Cleveland will not soon forget the conscientiousness with which he performed the work assigned to him. Even when his health made it very difficult for him to be there he was in his seat. He was, indeed, "faithful unto death." His was the life of a Methodist preacher eminently successful in his work.

JEREMIAH COWINS was born in New York city March 1, 1830. When a few years of age his father took him to Trenton, N. J., where he was engaged upon some public work. While there the terrible cholera scourge overtook the father, who died. Kind people took charge of the boy, intending to give him a temporary home. His mother, thinking him dead, lost entire track of him. The boy continued around Trenton, knowing nothing of a single relative. At nineteen he was converted and joined the Presbyterian Church. This awakened an ambition for an education, and he began attending Pennington Seminary, graduated, and was admitted to the New Jersey Methodist Episcopal Conference in 1855, and at the division two years later became a member of the Newark Conference. His successive appointments were: New Dover, Bound Brook, Elizabethport, Westfield, Mount Horeb, Perth Amboy, Spring Valley, Montclair, Hackensack, Woodrow, Staten Island; Kingsley, Staten Island; Springfield, East Newark, West End, Jersey City; Bayonne, Watsessing, First Church, Rahway; South Market Street, Newark; Agent of Newark Conference Historical Society, Basking Ridge, Emory Church, Jersey City, assistant pastor. At the Conference of 1896 his relation was changed to supernumery. While stationed at West End he was appointed with others to investigate certain questions arising in a neighboring charge, and his name with others was published in the New York city papers. It was seen by certain people in New York and brought out the fact that instead of being born at Trenton he was born in New York. He now learned of the death of his mother. While working in New York he had lived in the same street with her, and two or three times later was very near his relatives without discovering them. In revival work his most noted appointments as to results were Perth Amboy and Hackensack. He was characterized by much zeal in relieving debt-ridden churches. He was taken with paralysis on Sunday night, December 6, 1896, and died on Wednesday, February 3, 1897. His marriage to Miss Catherine Campbell Hodge occurred in 1859. With three sons and one daughter she is now left to mourn his decease. His was the hundredth death among the members of the Newark Conference. His earthly record is one of fidelity.

STEWARD F. CUSTARD was born near Stroudsburg, Pa., September 12, 1861. He was converted at sixteen. He felt at once a call to the ministry, and entered the Orangeville Academy, later graduating from the Millersville Pennsylvania Normal School in 1884. On May 16, 1885, he married Miss Leila Du Tot, of Easton, Pa. For six years he was principal of the Clinton (N. J.) Academy, and ranked high as a painstaking educator. In 1892 he was admitted on trial in the Newark Conference and appointed to Milford, Pa. In 1895 he was appointed pastor at Dunellen, N. J., where on March 9, 1897, after an illness of more than six weeks, he passed away. He was a consistent Christian, sympathetic, studious, charitable. His life was a constant testimony to the power of the blood of Jesus Christ to cleanse and keep. His last words were: "I am going home to heaven. . . . O, it is a glorious victory!" He was a successful minister of Christ. He was thorough in his preparation for the pulpit, believing that a minister's great work was to preach a strong, clear, loving Gospel. He was endeared to all. So many kindnesses were shown him in his troubles by members of other denominations that a stranger would have believed all were members of the same Church.

DANIEL E. FRAMBES was born in Bargaintown, N. J., October, 1822. His parents were Methodists known and respected throughout southern New Jersey. He was thoroughly trained in the doctrines of the Church, converted at an early age, and called in his youth to the ministry. He graduated from Pennington Seminary, where for three years he was professor of mathematics. He was admitted to the New Jersey Conference in 1846 and appointed as junior preacher to Vernon and New Milford Circuit. His later appointments were: Milford, Rockland, Seaman's Fund Retreat, supernumerary, New Prospect, Belleville, supernumerary again, Columbia and Hainesburg, Asbury and Bethlehem, Hainesville again, Vernon and Glenwood, Flanders, Anderson. In 1883 he became supernumerary, and later superannuated. He was an earnest, thoughtful, and at times eloquent preacher. He believed thoroughly in the doctrines and polity of the Methodist Episcopal Church, and was one of her unknown princes. He was an earnest student, keeping himself abreast of the times, young in spirit though feeble in body. Many who knew him in his later years bear testimony to his spotless life. Of him a layman said, "We have known him nearly a year, but short as is the time the life and influence of the grand old man will be felt by our Church forever." In a young people's meeting he said: "My life has been a stormy one. Financial reverses, afflictions, bereavements, and trials have been my lot, but God has been so good to me that I can only praise him. For the past year I have been living in Beulah land. Not a cloud has passed over my spiritual sky. All is calm and peaceful. Glory be to the name of the Lord!" He died on Friday, March 26, 1897, after an illness of four days. The veteran of fifty-one years has laid his armor aside for the robe and crown.

Missouri Conference.

ROBERT L. JAMISON was born October 5, 1832, in Indianapolis, Ind., and died December 6, 1896, near Sumner, Mo. He married Miss Ella McCaferty in Keokuk, Ia., December 11, 1857. He served as a private soldier during the Mexican war. In 1864 he entered the ministry, and was admitted into the Missouri Conference of our Church in 1881, coming from the Missionary Baptist Church. He served the following charges: Utica, Breckenridge, Winston, Maysville, Jamesport, Braymer, Kidder, Shelbina, and Rothville, having been appointed to the last charge in the spring of 1896. On Sunday morning, December 6, 1896 he preached to a large congregation at Sumner, remaining in the neighborhood until evening, and while getting his team to go to his night appointment, he was stricken down and died in a few moments. He had always expressed a desire to die in the work. God granted it, for at the time of his death he was holding a protracted meeting at Prairie Mound appointment. He was a true friend, and a faithful preacher and pastor. He leaves a wife, three daughters, and a host of friends to mourn his loss. To him his departure was sudden glory.

New England Conference.

JOHN CLOUGH INGALLS was born in Sandown, N. H., June 23, 1808, and died in Melrose, Mass., February 28, 1897. He was brought up amid agricultural scenes, but, desiring a higher education, entered the Wesleyan University at Middletown, Conn., where he graduated in due time. He was converted while in college, and in his singing schools which he taught he was a revivalist as well as an instructor.

He had a peculiar gift for winning souls to Christ, which was seen almost all through his life. He joined the New England Conference on trial in 1846. His first appointment was Leominster. In 1847 he was stationed at North Malden (now Melrose), where he suffered from an affection of his throat. At the ensuing Conference he was received into full membership and placed on the supernumerary list. In 1848 he was assigned as a supernumerary to Lynnfield, where he attempted to perform ministerial labor, but his health more seriously failed, and he was put on the superannuated list at the next Conference. He married in 1847 Miss Emily Tilton Colby, who died June 3, 1883. A son survives. After being laid aside from ministerial service he found a specific for lung and throat diseases which he used to advantage in his own case and successfully recommended to others. This gradually grew into a business in which he was quite successful. As he visited numerous places in the prosecution of his traffic he was ever alive to religious duty, attending the local services and participating in them. Numerous revivals were thus incepted, and he tarried sometimes two or three weeks to aid the pastor. He was never strong enough, however, to undertake again the work of the ministry. All through life he was deeply spiritual, and a constant attendant upon the prayer and class meetings of his church. His piety was always of a sweet, hopeful type. About ten weeks before his death he had a fall, receiving injuries from which he never fully recovered. While convalescing he caught cold and was stricken with pneumonia, from which he died in two days, on Sunday morning.

Rodney Holland Howard was born in Willsboro, N. Y., September 18, 1832. He was early converted and joined the Church. In due time he entered the University of Vermont, graduating in 1856. For some years he taught in the Troy Conference Academy and in some other institutions. Joining the Vermont Conference, he served for three years within its territory. By transfer he came to the New England Conference in 1866, and his appointments were as follows: Monson, Brookfield, Milford, Hudson, Tapleyville, South Walpole, Saxonville, Millbury, Townsend, Franklin, Newton Lower Falls, and Oakdale. In all these charges he showed himself approved of God. As a preacher he was scholarly, clear in statement, and forcible in utterance. He addressed the understanding rather than the emotions. In his parishes he was sympathetic and helpful. His most commanding gift was his literary talent. In this he far exceeded the average of educated men. With his learning, his resources, his fine sentiment he had an extraordinary facility in the use of his pen. In stately review pages he had an honorable place, while the religious papers teemed with his contributions. He would seize upon some trifling incident, and with a few rapid strokes weave it into a readable article. Some tracts of his composition are gems of fitness and of beauty. His private correspondence outreached the bounds of the continent. The doctorate of divinity was the merited tribute of his university to his talents and attainments. He had previously earned through study a like degree in philosophy from Boston University. He died of heart disease at Oakdale January 3, 1897. He was twice married, his last wife surviving him.

Austin F. Herrick was born in Otis, Mass., June 17, 1824, and died in Newton, Mass., September 2, 1896. He was the seventh in regular descent from Henry, an emigrant ancestor, who settled at Beverly. His father was a farmer. He was early converted, and joined the Church in Hartland. In 1849 he entered the Wesleyan University, but his straitened financial condition obliged him at the close of the first term to leave the school. The next year he entered the Biblical Institute at Concord, where he completed the three years' course in two years. On November 17, 1852, he married Miss Marian B. Peirce, who survives with six children. The remainder of the year he supplied the church at Goffstown, N. H. In 1853 he was received on trial in the New England Conference, and stationed at Buckland. The other charges he occupied were as follows: Ashburnham, Salem, Medford, Ipswich, Boston Street, Lynn; Holliston, Chelsea, Mount Bellingham, Elm Street, Gloucester; Ashburnham again, Athol, Spencer, Coral Street, Worcester; Newton, Upper Falls, Marlboro. The last decade of his life was marked by decline. In all these charges he made a noble record. At Salem he had a continuous revival during the last eighteen months of his term. In Holliston he had a gracious work, in which his three sons were converted and received into the Church. His second term in Ashburnham was a period of interest. At Athol the skies were unpropitious, but copious showers came at length. In Spencer the membership was nearly doubled during his term, and was instrumental in the conversio nof five or six men who became preachers. Two of them were his own sons. As a preacher he was earnest and sympathetic. He preached the Gospel, and left curious speculations to men of leisure. He was a practical and useful worker. He became supernumerary in 1887 and superannuated in 1890. He accepted the new dispensation as a divine appointment, and moved forward with his accustomed cheerfulness, finding delight in his family circle and inspiration in association with the children of God. He waited with joy the descent of the chariot of flame. In his hour of trial he exclaimed, "I have taken death by the hand and we are walking together, but I am conqueror!"

Jeremiah L. Hanaford was born in Northfield, N. H., June 7, 1824, and died in Melrose, Mass., January 1, 1897. His father and mother were devout members of the Methodist Episcopal Church. At sixteen he was visited by pungent conviction for sin, and after a struggle of some weeks he came into the liberty of the sons of God at a camp meeting held near his father's house. He was very soon received into the Church. Of his new experience he began at once to speak, and after three years he was licensed on the same day in 1843 as an exhorter and local preacher. He attended the Conference Seminary at Newbury, Vt., completing his course in 1845. In 1845 he was received on trial in the New England Conference, and served in succession the following charges: Dedham, Dudley, Blackstone, Princeton, Mendon, Second Church, Dorchester; Ipswich, Webster, South Street, Lynn; Melrose, Watertown, Chicopee, South Boston, Church Street, Boston. He then became permanently disabled and passed to the superannuated list. He was an able and impressive preacher. In the days of strength he possessed a noble physique, being tall and muscular, with a kindling eye, a strong voice, and an animated manner. He was a successful pastor, drawing the people to himself, and in some charges was eminently successful in gathering a large number of souls. For the last twenty-five years of his life his nervous system was a wreck. Out of this long period of darkness and suffering his final passage was sudden and painless. Though he often used his pen he committed to the press only a single work, an excellent history of the town of Princeton, an early field of labor. He was thrice married, his last wife surviving. Charles H. Hanaford, of the New England Conference, is his brother. He will long be remembered by the many who, through his ministry, were brought to a knowledge of salvation.

Sanford Benton Sweetser was born in Cliftondale, Saugus, Mass., May 23, 1839, and died in Lawrence Mass., March 4, 1897. He entered Wesleyan University at eighteen, and graduated in 1860. During his college course he was interested in the religious life, and was baptized in the spring vacation of his sophomore year. Shortly after graduation he married Miss Lizzie Locke Farmer, of West Cambridge, and supplied for the balance of the Conference year the appointment known as Epworth Church, Cambridge. In 1861 he was received into the New England Conference, and was stationed at Mendon. For the rest of his life he remained a member of that Conference except during his pastorate at Haverhill, Mass., when he was transferred to the New Hampshire Conference. Sixteen pastorates mark the life of this Christian minister. In three—South Street, Lynn; Melrose, and Webster—he was conspicuously successful. This success was largely due to his limitless sympathy. He could not witness suffering without becoming a participator therein. He was literally a vicarious sufferer all his life, not so much from choice as from nature. To this characteristic is attributable to a considerable degree his success as a pulpit orator. He drew people to the church by his model pastoral work, and they were helped by him they loved. The sick room was the place of his greatest power. When he prayed at the bedside of sufferers their faith was wonderfully increased by the magnetism of his love, He gave his life for others. Had he been less sympathetic he would be with us to-day. His life was crowned with sorrows to an unusual degree. Four children blessed his itinerant home, but three were early called away. Later still, the long illness of his beloved companion terminated in death. The closing years of his life were made happy in the presence of Miss Rena Alice Crosby, whom he married December 9, 1889.

Alfred Crossman Godfrey was born in Orono, Me., January 21, 1819, and died in Boston, November 13, 1896. He was converted in 1837, joined the Church in due time and almost immediately felt called to preach. For some time he was a student at Kent's Hill. He joined the Maine Conference in 1840, became a member of the East Maine Conference when it was set off from the Maine in 1848, was transferred thence to the New Hampshire Conference in 1870, and the next year was transferred to the New England Conference, of which he was a member for more than a quarter of a century. His appointments in Maine were: Surrey, Searsmont, Waldoboro, Lincoln, Eastport, Brewer, Newport, Rockport, Newport again, Houlton, Orrington, Chaplain in United States Army, Exeter, Newport again, Hampden; and those in Massachusetts were: Amesbury, Warren, Clinton, South Walpole, Maynard, Ludlow, Southwick, Franklin, Charlemont and Feeding Hills. On June 1, 1850, he married Maria Louise Beale. A throat trouble in 1852 forced a location for four years, and he removed to Minneapolis, Minn. While there he opened his own house and preached the first Methodist sermon on the west side of the Mississippi above Saint Paul. In the same house a class was formed, and the first quarterly meeting for that locality was also held. He was a man of commanding presence, considerably more than six feet in height and naturally robust, but in the later years of his life he suffered from results of sunstroke and malarial fever, the price of faithful discharge of duty while hospital chaplain of General Griffin's Division, Army of the Potomac. He bore his increasing infirmity with great cheerfulness, and did efficient service for twenty-four years after the war. He was a born metaphysician, grappling successfully with problems which baffle ordinary minds. As a preacher he was eminently original and helpful, and all through his active life had seals to his ministry. In character he was among the manliest of men. His walk and conversation were without blemish. He could look all the world straight in the eyes, for there was nothing but truth in his soul. She who walked in closest communion with him for nearly half the century and of all the world knew him best gave this testimony: "Words cannot express his nobility of character, his pureness of life, and his unswerving devotion to truth and right and to the cause of Christ wherever his lot was cast." He leaves a widow and two sons. He sang on earth with marvelous sweetness the praises of his Lord, and gave with delight his life to his service. He now sings his praises in heaven, for he has come to the light of his presence forever.

Nathan Dow George was born in Hampton Falls, N. H., June 24, 1808, and died in Oakdale, Mass., September 22, 1896. His father, a seafaring man, died when the son was only seven. Being left in reduced circumstances the mother could afford her boy only the most limited opportunities for education. By patient study and indomitable perseverance under difficulties he, however, attained a high degree of intellectual culture. Between the ages of seven and nine he was often the subject of powerful convictions of sin. The Calvinistic Baptists occasionally held meetings in the neighborhood, which he was accustomed to attend. Even at that early age he was much perplexed with the doctrines of foreordination and unconditional election that constituted so prominent a feature of the orthodox pulpit teaching of that day. Reacting against the fatalistic tendencies of High Calvinism he later became strongly tinctured with, and quite an ardent advocate of the doctrines of Universalism. Later, removing to Great Falls, N. H., he for the first time was introdnced to the "people called Methodists," in those days esteemed as little better than wild fanatics. A revival in the Methodist Church soon followed, and after a hard struggle he was soundly converted. He soon joined the Methodist Church on probation and became a Sunday school teacher. Received into full connection, he was at once appointed class leader. A little later he was duly licensed and held many meetings in neighboring schoolhouses. He joined the Maine Conference in 1836, Bishop Hedding presiding, by whom he was at the same time ordained deacon. He was ordained elder in 1839, and received into full connection and stationed at Saccarappa. Besides filling most acceptably several prominent appointments in the East Maine Conference he was in 1845 appointed Presiding Elder of the Gardiner District, and in 1849 of the Bangor District. In 1854 he was transferred to the New England Conference and stationed at Union Street, Lynn. In this Conference he was stationed nine times, each being an important field which he never failed successfully to occupy. In 1874 he took a superannuated relation, retiring to his home in Oakdale, where, amid most congenial surroundings, he spent the hallowed evening of his days. In 1846 he published George on Universalism. In 1856 he gave to the Church that masterly work, Universalism Not of the Bible, and this was followed in 1870 by Annihilationism Not of the Bible. The degree of D.D. was conferred upon him by the Baker University, Kansas. He was one of the earliest and most zealous advocates of temperance, as also of the antislavery cause; nor has the cause of education ever had a more sincere or earnest friend. Socially he was one of the most genial and lovable of men. There was about him a fine vein of humor, irrepressible, rippling from his lips to the last. As a preacher he was logical, earnest, convincing. He became the master of a fine English style. His delivery was charmingly colloquial. A few evenings before his departure he said, "I am aware that the time of my departure is at hand. I have been a thinker. I have been a fighter. But I have always fought the devil. I have ever been on terms of sweetest fellowship with my brethren in the ministry." Religiously he was devout without being pietistic or ardent. His loyalty to Christ, to his truth, his people, was invincible. To a childlike simplicity of character he united the firmness and resolution of a hero. A singularly symmetrical, all-round character, as well as a blameless life, indeed, was that of our venerable, lamented brother.

Franklin Fisk was born in Framingham, Mass., June 21, 1814, and died in Auburndale, Mass., December 10, 1896. He was converted during a revival in Wesleyan Academy, Wilbraham, Mass., in 1834. Realizing a call to preach he joined the New England Conference in 1836. His appointed fields of labor were South Wellfleet, Fairhaven, Yarmouthport, Watertown, Stoughton and Cumberland, R. I. His health failed after seven years. After two years' retirement from active service he again entered the field and faithfully served the following churches: Norwich Falls, Warehouse Point, Stafford, Marlboro and Harvard, Southampton, Pelham, Three Rivers, West Brookfield, Jenksville and Ludlow, Chester Factories, Hardwick, Lunenburg and New England Village. After thirty years' service, in hard fields for the most part, his bodily strength suffered a sudden and permanent collapse. From 1867 to 1897 he was a superannuate. Aside from his health his last thirty years may be regarded as an ideal old age. The wife of his youth walked by his side most of those years, and his children, having all become children of God, were filling places of honor and usefulness. He was always optimistic and contented with all the allotments of Providence. As a preacher he was not impassioned and sensational, but thoughtful and didactic. As a pastor he was prudent and painstaking in the care of the twenty-one churches which enjoyed his labors. Death came to him as no surprise after two months of painful illness. His end was peaceful. He sleeps the sleep of the just.

Osman Wesley Adams was born in Chelmsford, Mass., in 1822, and died July 13, 1896, at Barre, Mass. He was descended from a good old New England family. His early years were spent on a farm. He was converted before reaching manhood. His zeal for souls was manifest soon after he became a Christian. He was early licensed as an exhorter and a few years later as a local preacher. When about twenty, following in the footsteps of his Master, he chose the carpenter's trade. On April 12, 1846, he married Lucy Abbott, of Hinsdale. The nine years following found him "diligent in business, fervent in spirit, serving the Lord." During these years the conviction came to him that he must preach. His lack of early advantages, his business prospects, his growing family, were all pleaded as excuses; but after a long and severe struggle in the spring of 1855 he accepted work under the presiding elder in the Troy Conference, and was stationed at Petersburg, where he was signally successful. In 1856 he was sent to Stamford in the same Conference, where again the Lord blessed him in the conversion of souls. In April, 1857, he was employed on the Pleasant Valley Circuit in the New York East Conference. There were some five or six preaching places. A religious interest in the community was at length awakened, and in the fall of 1857 a gracious revival began and continued until some two hundred had professed conversion. One of them became a preacher of the Gospel. In 1858 he was returned to this circuit. In April, 1859, he was sent to West Suffield, where quite a number were converted. In 1860 he was employed on the Springfield District in the New England Conference at Agawam. He joined this Conference in 1861, and continued a member until his death. His appointments were as follows: Agawam, South Deerfield, Bernardston and Gill, Pelham, North Prescott, Chicopee Falls, Palmer, Hubbardston, Monson, Oxford, Shrewsbury, Franklin, South Walpole, Weston, Charlton City, Townsend, Princeton, Barre, superannuated. In Pelham he witnessed perhaps the most remarkable revivals of his ministry, when for weeks the entire town and country surrounding were moved by the mighty power of God. He belonged to the old school of Methodist preachers. He proclaimed Christ as the one, and only, and all-sufficient Saviour of men. His kindliness of spirit and genial manner won him the esteem and affection of many who became his fast friends. His ringing, soulful shouts of praise raised the spiritual temperature of many a religious meeting. His very presence in a gathering of the Lord's children was a glorious uplift. For nine months prior to his departure he was confined to his room, having the affectionate care of his wife and daughter and the generous sympathy of the community. Though at times suffering much his end was peace.

Central Pennsylvania Conference.

Samuel W. Sears was born in Baltimore, February 27, 1834, of Methodist parents, who reared their son in the Church of which they were devout members. In his thirteenth year he fully surrendered to God and united with Fayette Street Church. He soon gave evidence of special endowments, and was called upon to exercise his gifts in prayer and exhortation and to conduct religious meetings. He entered the Baltimore Conference in 1855, and almost immediately took rank as a preacher, being appointed to important charges, which he served with success. Though never of a robust constitution, being twice compelled by impaired health to turn aside for a short while, he was abundant in labors. He was a voluminous reader, a close student, and especially gifted in homiletical analysis. In philosophy, science, and literature, as well as in theology, he was remarkably proficient. His sermons were original, ornate, thoughtful, luminous with illustrations from current events, spiritual, and delivered with fervor. Revivals attended his ministry. He excelled as a pastor. In debt paying and church building he made a notable record. By his skill he brought success to several seemingly hopeless enterprises. He married Miss Elizabeth R. McCahan on February 22, 1859. She preceded him to the heavenly mansions by four years. Six children survive. In 1896 he took a supernumerary relation and removed to Philadelphia for medical treatment. Disease, however, had too far advanced, and on June 10, after intense suffering, but with a triumphant shout "All's right," he sweetly fell on sleep. His fields of labor were as follows: Newville, Carlisle Circuit, Lewistown Circuit, Wrightsville, Ashland, Hagerstown, Cumberland, Milton, Philipsburg, First Church, Altoona; Espy and Light Street, supernumerary, Mount Carmel, Catawissa, Sunbury, Lewistown again, Bedford, Mount Carmel again, Fifth Street, Harrisburg; Bloomsburg, Chambersburg, Fifth Avenue, Altoona; supernumerary. He rests from his labors and his works do follow him.

Levi S. Crone was born in Dover Township, Pa., February 12, 1836, and died at Marion, Kan., September 15, 1896. In early life he was confirmed in the Lutheran Church, which was the faith of his fathers. In 1859, while teaching school in Lancaster County, he was convicted of sin, was converted in a Methodist revival and united with the Methodist Episcopal Church. Very soon thereafter he heard the call to preach, was licensed and served one year under the presiding elder, being stationed at Middletown, Md. In 1863 he was received on trial in the East Baltimore Conference. In 1865 he was ordained deacon by Bishop Baker, and in 1867 elder by Bishop Kingsley. In the division of the East Baltimore Conference he became a member of the Central Pennsylvania Conference. In conversation he was chaste, and in life he was an exemplary minister. Kind, unselfish, and of deep piety, he was much respected and beloved. In his preaching he was clear, practical, earnest, and convincing. The doctrine of sanctification, experienced at the Manheim camp meeting, he preached and adorned until God called him. Never robust in constitution, he pursued his beloved calling in spite of failing strength, and remained in the effective ranks until 1885, when with reluctance he asked for a supernumerary relation and removed to Kansas. He served the following charges: Middletown, Frostburg Circuit, Liberty, Allegheny, Quincy, Duke Street, York; Jamestown, Sinnemahoning, Howard, Congress Hill, Washingtonville, Castle Fin, Three Springs, Concord, supernumerary. In Kansas he supplied certain appointments without salary from the time he first went there till a few months before his death. His sufferings were great, but his confidence in the power of God to sustain him never failed. In 1869 he married Mrs. L. C. Krause, who remains to mourn her loss. One writes from Kansas: "He had been in charge of some preaching places that could not be well cared for by any of the organized charges. Always and everywhere he preached with the greatest acceptability. His standing in this immediate community was superior. It was really touching to see how all classes, saint and sinner, young and old, respected and loved him. I think I never knew a more devout man, without cant, nor one so conscientious without being censorious. And no man ever had a more triumphant death."

George Berkstresser was born August 12, 1807, and died November 3, 1896. He was converted in his twenty-third year, and was admitted to the Baltimore Conference in 1836. He was a forcible and logical preacher, delighting to present the Gospel whose precious truths were incorporated into his own experience. His was a gentle, loving spirit. His appearance was benign and suggestive of one whose life was closely united with Christ Jesus. His appointments were as follows: New Bloomfield, Mifflin, Beaver Meadows, Bellefonte, with Rev. Thomas Taneyhill as his colleague; Danville Circuit, Sunbury, Shrewsbury, Bedford, Warrior's Mark, Newport, Clearfield, Penn Valley, Lewistown Circuit, Cassville, Woodbury, York Springs, Shrewsbury again, Gettysburg, Rainsburg, superannuated, supernumerary, superannuated again. While pastor at Gettysburg the great battle occurred. His son writes: "The rebel sharp shooters occupied the roof of the parsonage during the battle, thus drawing the fire of the Union forces. . . . A shell struck the parsonage over the second-story window, throwing quite a quantity of brick and mortar into the room. My sister Laura was standing at the window. The shell rebounded into the street and is now, I think, cemented in the wall. Father was, I think, the first one who discovered the retreat of the rebels. He captured two rebel soldiers who were sleeping in an adjoining house, their detachment having neglected to awaken them." He married at Schellsburg, Pa., February 25, 1840, Miss Anna C. Horn, with whom he lived in happy companionship for fifty-four years. She preceded him to the glory land by two years. For the last six or seven years he lived with his son in Dadeville, Ala. Without any previous illness he departed to the better country. As he became weaker in body his trust in Christ grew stronger, and without any misgivings he welcomed the coming of the last foe and passed to his eternal home.

James Frew Pennington was born at Mifflintown, Pa., October 21, 1846, and after less than three days' illness of peritonitis died at Lewisberry, Pa., November 26, 1896. At about sixteen he entered the volunteer army of the United States, and served therein almost three years. It was his to participate in the engagements of Drury's Bluff, Cold Harbor, Petersburg, Cemetery Hill, Chapman's Farm, and Fort Harrison, in all of which he bravely faced the foe. In 1867, at Port Royal, Pa., he was converted and united with the Church. Soon thereafter he entered Williamsport Dickinson Seminary to prepare for the ministry. He was admitted on trial in the Wilmington Conference in 1874, and served that year on the Federalsburg Charge, but returned to Central Pennsylvania Conference in 1875, and was received on trial therein. He was ordained deacon by Bishop Bowman in 1877, and elder by Bishop Foster in 1879. His health was much broken by his service as a soldier, and all through his after life he was called to endure almost constant suffering. Because of this he was compelled several times to seek respite in a supernumerary relation, the last time in 1895. His fields of labor were: Saxton, Ray's Hill, Shirleysburg, Burnt Cabins, Pleasantville, Bedford Circuit, Blain, supernumerary, West Huntingdon, McConnellsburg, Lewisberry, supernumerary. Twice was he married, the second time to Miss Eliza A. Foster of Lewisberry, Pa., who survives. He was a cultured gentleman, a strong and attractive preacher, a wise administrator, a careful and beloved pastor, and exceptionally successful in all his charges. We mourn the departure of a man of God and a beloved friend and brother.

New York East Conference.

James V. Saunders was born in Manchester, England, April 8, 1834, and died in Port Jefferson, L. I., May 31, 1896. He was converted in Glen Cove church in a revival in 1857, while the congregation was singing "Arise, my soul arise!" He entered the Concord Biblical Institute in 1860, and graduated in 1863. In November of the same year he married Miss Alice E. Green, of Charlestown, Mass., and took her to his first charge in the New York East Conference, at Stony Brook, L. I. He joined that Conference on trial in 1863, and was ordained deacon by Bishop Ames in 1865, and elder by Bishop Clark in 1867. All of his appointments save four were on Long Island, and were as follows: Stony Brook, Islip, Babylon, York Street, Brooklyn; Warren Street, Brooklyn; Willett Street, New York; Jamaica, South Norwalk, Rockville Center, Wesley Chapel, New York; Amityville, Sheepshead Bay, Amityville again, Seventh Street, New York; Port Jefferson. After thirty-three years he came to his last appointment within a few miles of where he began, and many former parishioners had the mournful privilege of being present at his funeral. Taylor University, Indiana, conferred on him the degree of Doctor of Divinity in 1894. He made a successful record. He had many precious revivals, paid a number of perplexing debts on different properties, and built several churches. Nothing spectacular entered into his methods. He was clear and convincing, argumentative in style, and in every sense a good preacher. It is thought he took cold while ministering at the grave in the cold and wet. Pneumonia set in, and after several weeks of sickness he met death calmly on May 31, 1896. He had a princely funeral. The whole town mourned its loss, and devout men carried him to his burial. His widow and two daughters are left to mourn their loss.

William D. Thompson was born in Staley-bridge, Lancaster, England, November 18, 1845. His father, Archibald Thompson, was for twenty-one years a traveling preacher in the Methodist New Connection of England, and thereafter was long the successful manager of large business interests. His mother was active in church work, while her grandfather was for eighty years a member of the Wesleyan body, and frequently entertained John Wesley. With such home associations it is not surprising that at seven, in the garret of his father's home, William D. Thompson gave himself to God. When only fifteen he was appointed master of the Brandes Day School, Durham, and soon the daily attendance increased from 40 to 280. At sixteen he was licensed as a local preacher, and then studied medicine in the University of Durham. In 1863 he was received on probation in the ministry of the Methodist New Connection, and three years after was appointed as a medical missionary in North China, and was ordained July 12, 1866, in Sheffield. The following day he started for his distant field, where he labored for two years. During the famine in China he was employed by the British government as one of its agents to distribute aid, and passed through the smitten country. Through exposure and toil he was stricken with fever and was carried to a seaport, where he arrived at the point of death. Returning to the United States, he was for a few months engaged with a geological survey in the Western States. While rendering medical service in Bellevue Hospital, New York city, he felt impelled to give himself to the ministry, and joined the New York East Conference. He was stationed as follows: West Farms, Mianus, Allen Street, New York; Westville, Greenport, Tabernacle, Brooklyn; New Rochelle, First Place, Brooklyn; Central Church, Brooklyn; Port Chester. He was a systematic student, keeping in touch with all movements in philosophy and science. So industrious was he that he accumulated and arranged material for a lecture on nearly every known science, and also subject-matter for more than two hundred unused sermons. He had received the degrees of M.D. and Ph.D. He was a superior preacher. The burden of his message was the sufficiency of the atonement and the simplicity of the methods by which the sinner may be saved. His pulpit deliverances were more than ordinary manifestations of intellectual industry, often unique in form and finish, but always the result of intimate fellowship with God. Unremitting was his fidelity in the pastoral work. The cold and storm of winter, the heat and oppressiveness of summer, had little effect upon his zeal. His knowledge of medicine, which he never abused, was of value in homes of poverty and in cases of peril. His sympathy was unfeigned. Unwearied in his devotion he was always a welcome visitor to the rich or poor. He was a manly, brotherly, good man. He was brave and uncomplaining when sorrows and disappointments multiplied. For a few months previous to his departure, when called to his meals or to meet visitors, he would invariably repeat to the messenger a portion of Tennyson's "Crossing the Bar," evidently assured that the "crossing" was not distant, and that the Pilot was near. At the Conference of 1896 he contracted a cold. Returning home he was afflicted with typhoid-malaria fever, and after periods of painful suffering was not, for God took him June 1, 1896. Some of his last words will indicate his triumphant death: "His blood takes all the sin away." "The glorious power close beneath the blood." "I've taken a portion, a portion in Him." "I've been looking into the face of my blessed Lord the past twenty days." "How much better to spend Sunday there than among these desolate scenes!" "All is yonder; nothing here!"

Eben Smith Hebbard was born in Bowery Village, N. Y., on August 7, 1813. His parents were devout Methodists, and were among the founders of Bowery Village—now Seventh Street—Church, in which the father was a class leader for many years. In 1830 he was converted. His parents, in October, 1836, moved to Maspeth, L. I., where they had purchased a farm. Accompanying them he connected himself with the Maspeth church, and was licensed to exhort by its Quarterly Conference. On February 25, 1837, he received his authority to preach. On May 23 of the same year he became a probationer in the New York Conference, and was sent to Riverhead Circuit, including all the territory lying between Riverhead and Orient Point, L. I. He served the following places: Riverhead, Southold, and Greenport, Sullivan Circuit, Delaware Mission, Charlotte Circuit, Jefferson Circuit, Catskill Circuit, Eighteenth Street, Brooklyn; Smithtown Circuit, North Fifth Street, Brooklyn; Ansonia, Redding, Essex, Cold Spring, Smithtown Circuit again, Farmingdale and Sweet Hollow, Far Rockaway and Foster's Meadow, North Fifth Street, Brooklyn; West Chester, Collinsville, Cheshire, Stepney, City Island and East Chester, City Island, Freeport, East Norwich and Westbury, West Hampton, East Meadow and Uniondale. Twenty-two of these forty-four years were spent upon circuits, where hard work was absolutely necessary. Endowed by nature with a strong physique, and by grace with love for souls, he accepted his appointments without complaint, thankful to be employed in any part of the Lord's vineyard. He was a distant relative of Billy Hibbard, and possessed some of the qualities which united to make the latter famous. His commanding appearance, stentorian voice, natural alertness, and remarkable memory combined to mark him as a man of unusual native ability. In 1848, when the New York East Conference was established, he became one of its charter members. He labored acceptably, strengthening the work and winning souls to God till 1881, when increasing infirmity compelled him to superannuate. For fifteen years he held this relation, proving the power of grace to keep an active nature sweet when the pleasures of activity are denied. During his last illness he was joyous in faith, willing to live if it pleased God, but ever anxious to hear the welcome call, "Child, come home." He had been married three times. Four children of his first marriage and his widow survive to mourn their loss. On Thursday, November 14, 1895, he was stricken with paralysis, but rallied, and was for some time able to go about a little. But nature was wearing out, and he became a prey to other troubles, which hastened the end. On Saturday, July 11, 1896, paralysis again appeared, and on the following Thursday, July 16, attended by a devoted wife, a companion of his childhood, his glad spirit went home to God.

Henry Derring Latham was born in New Windsor, N. Y., September 30, 1812. He was baptized in infancy by the pastor of the Presbyterian Church of Newburg, N. Y. After his conversion in 1830 he was received as a member of that Church, and subsequently transferred by letter to the Methodist Episcopal Church of Newburg. He was licensed to exhort in 1842, and to preach in 1843. He graduated from the Union Theological Seminary, New York city, in 1843. The same year he was received into the New York Conference, ordained deacon by Bishop Janes in 1845, and elder by Bishop Morris in 1847. His appointments were: Essex, Fair Haven, Madison, Riverhead and Jamesport, Eighteenth Street, Brooklyn; William Street, Brooklyn, where he was returned supernumerary, to serve a third year, West Granby, Colebrook River, Westport, Windsor Locks, Essex and Saybrook, Northport and Centerport, Rockville Center, Milford, supernumerary on account of the death of his wife, Madison again, North Wilton and Vista, Newtown and Southville, supernumerary to serve his aged father, Higganum and Haddam, Rocky Hill, Madison and Guilford. In 1878 he superannuated and served the Madison Church a third time for a while, and there spent the remainder of his life, dying in his own house August 25, 1896, after an illness of five days. Before he became of age he was Sunday school superintendent in Newburg, and before entering the ministry a public school teacher in New York. He says, in his autobiography, that his Christian life began in infancy, and that he transferred his membership to the Methodist Episcopal Church because of his "love of the doctrine of holiness" and his "call to preach, but not the theology of the Saybrook Platform." On December 31, 1836, he married Phœbe Whiting, of Darien, Conn. She died in 1870. In person he was tall and erect, and there was a charming stateliness in his presence and elegance in his language hard to describe. His pastor of ten years ago says: "His character was remarkable for its individuality. He habitually depreciated his gifts, yet surprised every hearer with his breadth of thought, wide reading, and singularly polished diction. He preached two sermons for me which were unique. I have never heard or read anything like them for originality of thought and expression." He delighted in the psalms, and his utterances drifted to praise of God. Deafness made it impossible for him to enjoy or fittingly participate in social religious meetings toward the end of his life. He enjoyed his solitude and work around his humble home. Full of good cheer, he often said to a recent pastor, "My work is done, and I am only waiting to be called home." Ministered to by his granddaughter and neighbors he conversed cheerfully with them as he neared the end, and fell asleep.

George Dunbar was born in West Bridgewater, Mass., on November 29, 1816. His father, a farmer, was a member of the Baptist Church, in which communion he reared his family. The happy conversion of a brother worked greatly on his mind, and he could find no rest till he had accepted Christ. The struggle through which he passed, the pleading for forgiveness, and the joy welling up within his heart when the answer came, were matters upon which he delighted to dwell during his subsequent life. Although he had all respect for his father's Church, yet its Calvinistic doctrines found no sympathetic response in his mind, and after long deliberation he united with the Methodist Episcopal Church. Leaving home at fifteen he entered as a clerk the Methodist Book Depository at Boston. Here the opportunity of acquainting himself with the standard authors of the Church satisfied his intense desire for knowledge, and he always referred to that time as a bright spot in his young life. He also became interested in the discussions of the leaders of eastern Methodism as they assembled at the depository. In the midst of such surroundings he became impressed that God had called him to the ministry. He entered the seminary at Cazenovia, N. Y., where he remained for four years, then continued his studies at East Greenwich, R. I., and subsequently became a student at Newbury, Vt., where he pursued the study of Greek and Hebrew, which he continued more than forty years. In 1845 he became a member of the New England Conference, and was stationed at Leicester, Mass. In 1855, having been transferred to the New York East Conference, he was stationed at Greenwich, Conn., and thereafter received his appointments in that Conference. He was interested in the investigation of theological and metaphysical studies. While not, in the strict sense, an "explorer of truth," there was no listener who heard new discoveries with greater interest than did he. Tireless in his preparation, and eager only for the truth, he presented the Gospel earnestly to his people. He was a great lover of music, and his social meetings were doubly attractive by his own singing. In his prime he was the possessor of a rich baritone voice, and when stationed in New York city his church would be crowded on Sunday evenings by those anxious to hear him sing. In 1889, heeding the admonition of advancing years, he took a superannuated relation and settled in Brooklyn. While he could preach no more he constantly read and studied and longed to stand again at his post proclaiming the Gospel. His last illness was of a long and painful duration. For many months he was confined to his bed. Now and then, as the clouds gathered, he would lose all trace of time and place. His faithful wife was taken ill on Monday morning, October 12, 1896, but the true situation was never made known to him. Noticing her continued absence, and learning that she was indisposed, he would now and then inquire how she was getting along, and would then pass into unconsciousness. On Friday, October 16, in a feeble voice, he said, "Good-bye," and without a struggle fell asleep. His wife lingered till the next day about midnight, when she ceased her breathing and was no more. On Monday night a large number assembled to pay their tribute of respect to the dead. In early life they began their work together, together their dust returned to the earth, while their spirits returned to God who gave them.

Samuel Augustus Seaman was born August 18, 1818, in New York city, and died in the same city October 23, 1896. His ancestors belonged to the Society of Friends, but his parents were members of Greene Street Methodist Episcopal Church. He was a member of the noted Bible class taught by Joseph Longking, D.D., which contained on its roll such names as John M. Reid, George W. Collord, C. C. North, and the late W. W. Cornell. He was baptized in infancy in the second John Street Church by the Rev. Freeborn Garrettson, was converted in October, 1835, and was received into the Church; was licensed to exhort in 1839 and to preach in 1841. He joined the New York Conference in 1842, was ordained deacon in 1844, and elder in May, 1846 by Bishop Janes. His appointments were as follows: Wethersfield Circuit, Harlem, Yorkville, New York; Twenty-fourth Street, New York; Windsor, Bridgehampton, Southold and Cutchogue, Carlton Avenue, Brooklyn; Jamaica, West Winsted, Southport, Stratford, Mount Vernon, Twenty-seventh Street, New York; New Rochelle, Astoria, Embury Church, Brooklyn; Bay Ridge and Unionville, East Chester, New Bridge and Seaford, Stratford, Whitestone, superannuated. In all these fields he was greatly beloved. He was a diligent pastor. His sermons were always instructive, and his spirit was that of a thoroughly consecrated Methodist preacher. He prepared for college at the New York City High School, entered New York University, and graduated in 1841. He was the Latin salutatorian of his class. He possessed an analytical and investigating mind. His whole demeanor was that of a cultured Christian gentleman. During his later years he read daily portions of the Hebrew, Greek, and Latin Testaments, and could speak and write German, correct the prose composition of undergraduates in French, Italian, and Spanish. The infirmity of deafness, which increased in density until it was almost total, shut him away from the lines of usual activity, and his mind, thus excluded from much of present interest, reveled in the past. He became the antiquary of local New York city Methodism; the discussions of forty years ago, the incidents of church life, the antique corners of the city, the notable men of one or two generations ago, were intimate and familiar to him. He gave much time to a local history of our denomination. So severely accurate was he that his Annals of New York Methodism, published in 1890, will never need revision. The Church is indebted to him for the best local history of our denomination ever published. The degree of A.M. was conferred on him by his alma mater in course. He took a superannuated relation in 1885, but continued his literary work till his decease. In 1844 he married Miss Anna A. Byrne, a ward of the late James Floy, D.D. She entered upon the life immortal January 16, 1885. Five children survive. His later years were spent in the home of his son and daughters in the city in which he was born and which he so dearly loved. While riding in an avenue car on his way downtown the summons came, and an angel kissed his soul away to the realms of bliss. He was a thoroughly spiritual man, and loved to talk of the deep things of God. His last remembered words along religious lines were addressed to his lifelong friend, Professor Collord: "I will try to walk circumspectly, redeeming the time, which cannot now be long." His funeral services were conducted by Bishop Andrews. "Then I heard in my dream that all the bells of the city rang for joy, and it was said unto them, 'Enter ye into the joy of your Lord;' and after that they had shut up the gates I wished myself among them." A faithful servant of the Lord Jesus Christ has entered into rest.

Daniel Ostrander Ferris was born in New York March 15, 1837, and died in Bridgeport, Conn., November 15, 1896. He was the grandson of Rev. Daniel Ostrander, and the son of Rev. Ira Ferris, of the New York Conference. He was educated for medicine, but the hereditary trend was too strong, and he entered the New York Conference in 1858, serving at Morrisania, New Hamburg, Putnam Valley, and Lake Mahopac. In the opening years of the war he enlisted, was made Chaplain of the One Hundred and Thirty-third New York Volunteers, and served two years in the field. In 1864 he entered the New York East Conference. His appointments were Sag Harbor, Huntington, Hempstead, De Kalb Avenue, Brooklyn; Waterbury, Bridgeport, Beekman Hill, New York; Washington Street, Brooklyn; Bristol, Amityville, Bayshore, South Second Street, Brooklyn; Cornell Memorial, New York; Sea Cliff, Northport, and Summerfield, Bridgeport. He was three times married. In 1888 he wedded Mrs. Ella C. Bragg, who, with a son, Daniel Ostrander, survives him. He inherited the ardent nature, the optimistic temper, the emotional fervors which made the early itinerant so effective as a preacher, so attractive as a man. Into his work he put every ounce of his power, and reincarnated the purpose of the apostle, "As much as in me is, I am ready." Having put his hand to the plow he gave his whole thought to the furrow. He was an ardent American. His patriotism was a passion. With the first gun at Sumter his spirit leaped in its scabbard, and the valley of the Hudson reverberated with his trumpet call to the defense of the lacerated land. As a chaplain in the army he moved amid its perils unharmed, its temptations unsoiled, and under the guns of Port Hudson he kindled his regiment into a flame of revival. No chaplain left the army with a more honorable record or was held in higher esteem in the Loyal Legion, of which he was a charter member. Entering the New York East Conference he gave to all its interests a characteristic and constant devotion. He loved the brotherhood. He had the courage, the audacity of his convictions. He was a manly man, resolute in his convictions and unwavering in his loyalty to the best he knew of truth and duty. His comradery was something charming and contagious. He was an optimist whom disappointment could not disillusionize, who could be sunny-hearted in cloud and storm. As a preacher he was sound and strong, and made his appeal to the conscience and the heart in such importunate fashion that he often carried everything before him; and when he partook himself to prayer the kingdom of heaven suffered violence. He fell on the field, with his face to the front, in the service of the Master to whom he gave the very wine of his life. His latest breath was a gasp of his dear name. As he arose to announce his text he was smitten down, and, reeling to his home, the laboring heart beat itself away.

Emerson K. Young was born near Syracuse, N. Y., January 4, 1840. His parents removing to Clinton, Ia., his classical education was continued in Cornell College, at Mount Vernon, where he graduated in 1861. Shortly after his graduation he offered his services to the government, and was commissioned as major of the Twenty-fourth Iowa Regiment. After a brief service, owing to frail health, he resigned. In 1863 he was admitted on trial in the Upper Iowa Conference, and was appointed associate pastor of the churches of Davenport and Pleasant Valley, Ia. He was appointed in 1864 to Centenary Church, Dubuque. The next spring he was appointed to Marion, Ia., where he served two years. In 1867 he was assigned to Iowa City, where he served three years. The ensuing three years he was pastor at Main Street, Dubuque, the next three years at Cedar Rapids. In 1876 he was returned to Main Street, Dubuque, for a second term, and served two years. In 1878–80 he was pastor at Cedar Falls. He was then transferred to the Des Moines Conference and stationed at the First Church for three consecutive years. In 1884 he was transferred to the East Ohio, and stationed in First Church, Akron, then assuming pastorate of Grace Church, Philadelphia, where he served from the spring of 1888 to that of 1893. In 1893 he was transferred to the New York East Conference, and was assigned to Trinity Church, New Britain, Conn. Here he closed his ministry, being reappointed for the fourth time in 1896. His health failing he accepted the generous offer of his church to rest a while. But careful examination by expert physicians showed beyond doubt the presence of a probably fatal disease, tuberculosis. He then tendered his resignation, and repaired to Saranac Lake, N. Y., encouraged to hope that special treatment and care with favorable climatic influences would partially restore his health and prolong his life sufficiently to visit some old friends and the home of his boyhood. For a time there was seeming improvement, but later his strength gradually failed. His faith never for a moment faltered. He frequently said to his wife and wrote to his friends: "My house is set in order, and whatever the issue it is all right. I have been permitted to do my Master's work for over thirty years, and although imperfectly done, I believe it has been blessed of God, who doeth all things well." He was trustful and cheerful to the last. He was up much of the day on the evening of which the summons came, Friday, November 27, 1896. He was laid to rest beside his mother at Clinton, Ia. He was a manly man, a devout Christian, an able minister of the New Testament, a faithful pastor, an unfaltering friend, an uncompromising advocate of righteousness. He was honored with the degree of Doctor of Divinity. His natural ability, disciplined by study and travel, gave him great success in the work to which he was called. His works do follow him.

John Wesley Barnhart was born at Marlboro, N. Y., September 9, 1833, and died suddenly after a brief illness at his home in Tarrytown-on-the Hudson, January 25, 1897. His father was a pious and highly respected farmer and school-teacher. He spent his early boyhood upon the farm. During his younger manhood he was apprenticed to a master who taught him the trade of a wagonmaker. In 1854 he entered Charlotteville Seminary, Schoharie County, N. Y. In this institution and the Hudson River Institute, at Claverack, N. Y., he passed through his preparatory studies, and then entered Wesleyan University, in Middletown, Conn., graduating there in 1861. He was a local preacher while in college. After his graduation he became principal of a seminary at Moorestown, N. J. Here he remained till the spring of 1864, and became proprietor of the school. In the fall of 1864 he organized the Fairmount Female College, located in Green Street, Philadelphia. He joined the New York East Conference in 1867. His first appointment was Sag Harbor, L. I. His subsequent appointments were as follows: Tompkins Avenue, Brooklyn; Forsyth Street, New York; First Place, Brooklyn; First Church, Greenpoint; Saint John Street, New Haven; Sag Harbor again, Greene Avenue, Brooklyn; Danbury, Conn. His success in each appointment as preacher, pastor, and friend showed his devotion to the work of the ministry and the demands of the Methodist pastorate. In 1888 he asked for a supernumerary relation, because of domestic and business interests that demanded attention. This relation continued till his death. In the Asbury Church of Tarrytown, where he worshiped, he held the office of trustee. On the Wednesday evening previous to his fatal illness he was present at the revival services and affectionately pleaded with the people, urging sinners to accept Christ, and exhorting the officiary and members to increased activity. A classmate in college and near associate in the Conference says: "He was a man of marked ability. His fluency as a public speaker constituted a striking characteristic. He possessed an exceptional command of language; his voice was smooth, full, and resonant. These oratorical qualities remained unimpared to the last." He was mighty in prayer, and whenever he led in this service all who joined with him felt the unction of the Holy Spirit that unmistakably attended his utterances before the majesty of the interceding King. This element of power was especially manifest when he was pleading for sinners. He was endowed with rare business sagacity, which rendered him a wise counselor in Church affairs. He was a wise and generous steward, and many enterprises of the Church received his liberal contributions. He was married by the late Joseph Cummings, D.D., LL.D., to Miss Ellen Frances Miller, of Middletown, Conn., September 1, 1862, who, with one son, survives him. His death came suddenly, January 25, 1897. The cause was a hidden disease of which no one knew, and of which he himself was probably unaware. A skilled surgeon had been called from New York city, and, upon his arrival, after a careful examination, saw that no relief could be afforded. An anæsthetic had been administered for this preliminary examination, and while still unconscious he breathed his last. He woke to a blessed immortality.

Troy Conference.

William L. Smith was born in Albany, N. Y., July 15, 1838, and died suddenly December 9, 1896. He was taken with a hemorrhage just after offering prayer at the weekly prayer service. He had strength to reach the parsonage adjoining, but in a few moments was at home with the Lord. He had been in failing health for nearly two years, but reckoned himself quite recovered, and was feeling remarkably well. For nearly four years he had given Ash Grove Church his earnest labors. His interest for its highest good was intense. Especially did he care for an interesting class of young men which his genial piety and manly spirit had gathered about him. He laid down his work and life near his birthplace. He spent his boyhood in Castleton, N. Y., and laid the foundation of his education in the academy at Kinderhook. He joined the Troy Conference in 1862, was ordained deacon by Bishop Simpson, and elder by Bishop Janes. His appointments were: Grafton, South Williamstown and New Ashford, Stamford, Adams, Vergennes and Ferrisburg, Benson, Crown Point, Mooers, Brunswick, Old Chatham, Valatie, Middleburg, Ash Grove, Albany. Brother Smith was a good preacher, an untiring worker, and a faithful pastor. His piety was deep, controlling, and abiding. For many years he faithfully served his Conference on the Board of Stewards. It is not too much to say that he performed the larger share of its onerous duties. He married Miss Sarah C. Gorway May 10, 1864, who, with one daughter, survives him. A good man, a true friend, and a faithful brother has gone. Earth is poorer, but the home land richer.

George Godfrey Saxe was born in Plattsburg, N. Y., August 11, 1822. His father, who was of German blood, was proprietor of a large iron foundry near Plattsburg. After the destruction of his property by flood he retired to a farm in Sheldon, Vt. The subject of this sketch, who was then eleven years old, remained on the farm until twenty, receiving a rudimentary education in the common schools and in the Saint Albans Academy. Subsequently he spent four years in Connecticut, teaching and studying, after which, for nearly two years, he was a student at Cazenovia, N. Y. He was converted and joined the Church at thirteen. He received license as an exhorter in 1846 at Birmingham, Conn., and the same year was licensed to preach by the Quarterly Conference at Cazenovia, N. Y. He joined the Troy Conference in 1848. In 1849 he married Miss Huldah K. Merwin, of Leyden, N. Y. In the spring of 1857, having contracted a bronchial disease, he was granted a supernumerary relation, and his charge, Castleton, Vt., was left without a pastor in the hope that he would be able to resume his work; but after a summer's rest he found himself unable to preach, and resigned his charge and accepted a position as teacher in the Troy Conference Academy at Poultney, Vt. In 1859, his vocal difficulty still troubling him, he removed to New York city and entered business. His first experiment was the establishment of a teachers' bureau. Gradually a branch supplying musical instruments on commission was added. Later he became the New York agent for the Estey organs and pianos. For a number of years he resided in Brooklyn and worshiped at Saint John's Church. In 1875 he removed to Stamford, Conn. Fourteen years ago he removed to Madison, N. J. In this long period he preserved the dignity, refinement, and cordiality of the true minister, uniting with it the system, industry, and honesty of the Christian business man. Reliability was his most prominent virtue, itself the basis of many others. For many years he was a manager of the Missionary Society, and an intelligent participant in its proceedings. He was greatly interested in Drew Theological Seminary, and was in the habit of listening to the trial sermons of the students, being ever ready with words of encouragement and hints for improvement. He was a large contributor to the funds of the Conference. He rendered special aid to the Saratoga Springs Church in its great financial embarrassment, and also to the Salem Church, collecting funds in New York for both of them, and himself contributed liberally to each. While a teacher in the Poultney Academy, in 1858, Wesleyan University conferred on him the honorary degree of A.M. Some years ago the State University of Ohio conferred upon him the degree of D.D. He had started for a meeting of the Board of Managers of the Missionary Society on the morning of Tuesday, December 22, 1896, when suddenly he was smitten with apoplexy, from which he never recovered consciousness. He left a widow, two sons, and a daughter. The funeral services were conducted at Madison, N. J., a large delegation of the managers of the Missionary Society being present. The interment was at Salem, N. Y. The best scriptural description of this saint is one of the most brief, "He was a faithful man, and feared God above many."

New Hampshire Conference.

Otis Stanley Danforth was born at Fort Covington, N. Y., on April 9, 1858, and died at the home of his brother, Rev. A. C. Danforth, at Clayton, N. Y., September 15, 1896. He was educated in the public schools of his native town, at Bangor and Stockholm, and afterward at the Literary and Biblical Institute at New Hampton, N. H. He was converted in the city of Manchester in young manhood, and soon after consecrated himself to the ministry. On October 12, 1882, he married Minnie J. Marshall, of Colebrook, N. H., who with two children survives. He joined the New Hampshire Conference in 1884, was ordained deacon by Bishop Warren in 1886, and elder by Bishop Foster two years later. His first appointment was at Milan, where he remained until appointed to Saint James, Manchester, in 1885, winning his way to the hearts of all. At Saint James his work was characterized by much progress. He was pastor at Whitefield in 1888–90, and at Rochester in 1891–93. He was appointed to Garden Street, Lawrence, in 1894, where he continued until his death. He possessed a healthy brain and his thought was active and sound. He read and studied much, but never neglected the study of human nature. In his life he was consistent and earnest, in his prayers and testimonies devout and confident, yet ever humble and discreet. In his preaching he studied to bring Christ into the lives of the common people. He was a faithful pastor, and ministered comfort to troubled hearts; he was a soul saver and won many for his Master's kingdom. In the early summer of 1896 his health failed, and he sought restoration among the mountains of northern New Hampshire. About five weeks before his death he went full of courage to Clifton Springs. At times his suffering was intense, but his faith held firm. When the enemy took away his physical eyesight his spiritual vision brightened, and the things of the kingdom grew clear and distinct. He knew that his work was ended, but as he felt himself slipping away from earth visions of unspeakable splendor beckoned him on. And so in the noontime of life's day the chapters of one life well lived are finished.

Sullivan Holman was born in Hopkinton, N. H., June 13, 1820, was converted at fifteen, was licensed to preach at eighteen, took work under the presiding elder at twenty, and joined the New Hampshire Conference at twenty-two. At twenty he married Miss Asenath Stevens, of Salisbury, N. H., who died after twenty-four years. Later he married Miss Harriet Ayer, of Concord, and died on the twenty-eighth anniversary of their union. He was an excellent pastor. The loss of three children rendered him sympathetic for others. The two great revivals of his ministry were at Littleton in 1850–51 and at Newport in 1852–53. His versatility was marked. As a preacher, pastor, church builder, debt raiser, chaplain of the legislature of New Hampshire, chaplain of the New Hampshire State Prison, and agent of the Conference Seminary, he rendered acceptable service. He had his peculiar methods. He carried much in his memory where others needed pen, paper, and charts. When but twenty years of age and a supply at Putney, Vt., he supervised the building of a brick church which is still standing. In his sixty-seventh year he was appointed to Dracut and Lowell, it being understood that he was sent to raise up a society at Centralville. His charge in that place consisted of a triangular piece of land on which stood a small story-and-a-half cottage. At the end of five years he left Centralville with a beautiful brick structure, a Sunday school of one hundred and eighty, and a church membership of sixty. The building is now worth about twenty thousand dollars. His three brothers, Joshua, Calvin, and Silas, were also ministers. On the first Sunday of October, 1893, the services at the Main Street Church, Nashua, were conducted by the three brothers then living, the youngest having died several years before. The total of their combined ages was two hundred and twenty-three years and six months. Calvin, the youngest, seventy, preached; Joshua, the oldest, eighty, a man remarkably gifted in prayer, invoked the divine blessing; Sullivan, seventy-three, superintended the administration of the Lord's Supper. The silver locks, kind faces, venerable demeanor, and earnest words of these servants of God made an impression that will be long remembered. On April 15, 1896, at ten o'clock in the evening, comforted by the King's staff, he passed through the valley to the eternal brightness beyond.

William E. Bennett was born in Palmer, Mass., March 22, 1844. In 1861, at Millbury, Mass., he was "born again," and on September 13, 1896, without warning, but not without preparation, he was caught up. He joined the Church in 1862, was licensed to exhort in 1866, and to preach in 1867 at Suncook, N. H. In 1869 he graduated from the Conference Seminary and joined the New Hampshire Conference. In 1871 he was ordained a deacon by Bishop Janes, and in 1873 an elder by Bishop Simpson. He later took the theological course at Boston University, graduating in 1875. On June 30, 1870, at Bow, N. H., he married Miss Marion S. Colby. Four children and the mother survive. He served the following charges: Whitefield and Jefferson (as junior preacher), Jefferson, Goffstown, Brookline, Garden Street, Lawrence; High Street, Great Falls; Greenland, Lancaster, Plymouth, Newport, Keene, Lebanon, Lisbon. He was a man of generous stature and agreeable presence. His sermons were instructive and pervaded with the evangelistic spirit. The divine seal was vouchsafed to his ministry. He had the joy of gathering much precious fruit in his various fields of labor. He was one of the sweetest singers in our Israel. By this gift he could grace the social circle or thrill a religious assembly. He fell in the midst of the battle. An internal injury, the seriousness of which was unsuspected, probably caused his death. He was ready for the summons and needed no warning. The testimony of his wife is: "He had no premonition whatever that death was approaching. But he was all ready. He lived a consistent Christian life everywhere and always."

George Washington Hoit Clark was born at Rockingham, Vt., December 6, 1811, and died at Saint Albans, Vt., February 27, 1897. His early life was spent on a farm. He was converted at Landgrove, Vt., December 10, 1830, baptized June, 1831, and received into the Church December, 1831, at Landgrove, Vt. He married December 2, 1831, at Landgrove, Vt., Mary Farnum, their son being Robert C. Clark, a member of the New England Southern Conference. He was licensed as an exhorter July, 1833, at Landgrove, Vt. The church at Windham, Vt., granted him a local preacher's license June, 1834. He was ordained a deacon by Bishop R. R. Roberts in 1840, received into the New Hampshire Conference in June, 1841, and was ordained elder by Bishop Hamline in 1844. He filled the following appointments: Alexandria and Hill, East Haverhill, Bath, Warner and West Boscawen, Lebanon, Plymouth, Amesbury, Haverhill, Mass.; Winchester, Manchester, Main Street, Great Falls; Salem, Laconia, Lowell Street, Nashua; Newmarket, Keene, Manchester again. He was the Presiding Elder of the Claremont District from 1867 to 1871. He was transferred to the New England Conference in 1872, and served the following appointments: Fitchburg, Boston City Mission, Dudley Highlands, Lowell, Ayer Junction, Charlton, West Brookfield, Orange and Maynard. In 1881 he was made supernumerary, moved to Saint Albans, Vt., and supplied Enosburg Falls from 1881 to 1883. He became superannuated in 1884, and supplied Saint Johnsbury, Vt., in 1886. He was transferred to the New Hampshire Conference in 1887, and supplied Derry five months in 1888. He was a delegate to the General Conference in 1868. He was a happy Christian, carrying the sunshine of the Gospel into the homes of his charge, and found great enjoyment in pastoral work. He was a very early riser; the first hours of the morning were devoted to reading, while the greater part of the day was given to his duties among the people. He faithfully used his educational advantages for God's glory. His sermons were biblical and delivered with energy and power. In revival effort he was often a great power. In some of his appointments great seasons of awakening and turning to Christ were the results of his labors. In 1888 his wife was suddenly cut down. When the stroke of paralysis fell on him, a few weeks before his death, it found him ready, and triumphantly he passed away.

James Mowry Bean was born November 18, 1833, at Salisbury, N. H., and died at Raymond of valvular disease of the heart January 24, 1897. Influenced by the counsel and godly example of his parents he became a Christian disciple in 1852. He was baptized October 22, 1852, and united with the Church in full connection the following April. Six years later he received a license as a local preacher. In 1862 he married Miss Mary Trussel, who still survives. He entered the ministry in 1864. He was a man eminently loyal to righteousness, genuine to his last fiber, a friend to be trusted implicitly, a Methodist solicitous for the honor of his Church, and a minister who heartily desired the world's salvation. He sought to do something to that end every year and in every place. His candle was never set in conspicuous places, but he never therefore put it under a bushel. Its clear shining was made a blessing to many, and perhaps in no place more manifestly than in Raymond, where his disease slowly sapped his strength, until the last two weeks of intense suffering gave him assurance that his departure was at hand, and he declared complete readiness through trust in Jesus. During the last thirty-six hours, while partially delirious, his soul's longing was manifested by song, prayer, and exhortation, until his spirit rose and victory was his.

Jefferson T. Davis was born in Acworth, N. H., September 14, 1841. The family soon moved to Lempster, where he spent his boyhood days. Here he was converted May, 1856, baptized in August of the same year, and united with the Church January, 1857. He, with two brothers, enlisted August 6, 1862, in Company F, Ninth New Hampshire Regiment, and served his country to the close of the war. After receiving his discharge he came to Franklin Falls to work in a machine shop. Here he met Miss Annie Brown, whom he married August 21, 1867. Here God also called him to the ministry. As soon as possible he entered the school at Tilton to prepare for his great work. He was licensed to exhort at Tilton in 1869 and to preach in 1870. He was received as a probationer by the New Hampshire Conference in 1872, was ordained deacon in 1874 by Bishop Janes, and elder in 1876 by Bishop Simpson. He was a student at the Conference Seminary in 1868–70. His stations were: Gilmanton, Lyman, Haverhill, Stark, South Columbia, South Tamworth, Milton Mills, Tuftonboro Circuit, North Grantham and Grantham. He labored under great physical disabilities for years, being never a well man after leaving the army. In 1888 he felt compelled to take a supernumerary relation on account of poor health. In 1891 he was placed upon the superannuated list. In 1889 his old charge at Tuftonboro invited him to become their pastor. Here with new life he took up the work of the pastor. After three or four years of faithful service failing health compelled him to retire to a farm, where he spent the remainder of his days. The last six months were passed in great feebleness and suffering; his faith did not waver. God took him home July 9, 1896. He left a widow and one son. He was a man of deep piety, positive convictions, and great zeal in the work of God.

Maine Conference.

Henry F. A. Patterson was born in Saco, Me., October 27, 1818, and died in Old Orchard, Me., January 17, 1897. He was converted at sixteen, joined the Church, and in 1847 received a license to preach. In 1849 he joined the East Maine Conference, and continued in the effective ranks until 1888, when feeble health compelled him to become supernumerary, and in 1891 superannuated. In body he was large, in mind strong, keen, and quick. His clear-cut terms and incisive wit made him dangerous to pettifoggers and meddlers. He was a true Christian, rejoicing in and faithfully proclaiming the free and full salvation of the Gospel. He had a definite theology and message, which he believed and declared without cowardice or equivocation. He was manly in thought and irreproachable in character. The death angel met him on his way to church, instantly released him from the infelicities of earth and age, and brought him ere he was aware to Immanuel's land.

Alpha Turner was born in Durham, Me., June 12, 1814, and died in Cornish, Me., January 6, 1897. His conversion occurred January 17, 1838, on Long Island, in Casco Bay. He was received into the Church the following year. In early manhood he followed a seafaring life, and was throughout his ministerial career a characteristic "son of the sea." In 1843 he was licensed to exhort by the Quarterly Conference of Chestnut Street, Portland, and was licensed to preach a year later by the Quarterly Conference at Gorham Corner. In 1851 he joined, as a probationer, the Maine Conference. He was ordained local deacon by Bishop Waugh in 1846, and elder in 1857 by Bishop Baker. He was twice married, his last wife preceding him to the rest of God's people by only a few months. He brought to the work a vigorous constitution, an unusual pair of lungs, a loyal Methodist heart, and a deep devotion to his Master's cause. In all he had a unique personality. "He was a man that could not be lost in the crowd. Once seen and heard he left his impression." He prayed like a prevailing prince. Like the saintly Taylor of Boston, he would aptly illustrate, enforce, and define truth and religious experience in the familiar terms of the seaman. To him life was a voyage, with headwinds, shoals, sand-bars, and heavenly breezes. The Bible was his chart, Christ was his pilot, and heaven his final port. Though he entered the ministry comparatively late he filled out a long period of heroic service. When actively employed he was constantly in revival work, and many were brought to Christ through his labors. He was also prominent as a leader in church-building enterprises, and valuable church properties in various parts of the Conference are monumental of his success. His appointments were as follows: Baldwin and Hiram, North Gorham, Gray, Harrison and Naples, Buxton, Lebanon, Little River, West Newfield, East Newfield, and Shepleigh, South Biddeford, Hollis and North Biddeford, Scarboro, Kittery, Hartford and Peru, Hanover and Newry, Waterford, West Paris and Woodstock, Lisbon, Harpswell, Standish and North Gorham, Falmouth, Kennebunk Center, Berwick, Maryland Ridge, Goodwin's Mills, South Eliot, New Portland, Chebeague, Kezar Falls, Bowery Beach. He became superannuated in 1887, and held that relation until death. He never rallied from the severe shock inflicted by his wife's death. In the restlessness of his grief he sought the company of some much-loved friends of Cornish, intending to remain with them during the winter. After five weeks a severe cold troubled him. He rallied, however, and on the day before his death, with old-time cheerfulness, sang, "Jesus, Lover of my soul," and "There's plenty in Father's house above." He ceased singing, and said, "I am going aloft," intending to go upstairs. He went, but to those who remain behind his words had a double meaning. In twenty-four hours God had taken him "aloft."

New England Southern Conf.

Edwin D. Hall was born in Barnstable, Mass., December 4, 1831, and died in West Somerville, Mass., June 20, 1896. He was descended from hardy pioneer Pilgrim stock and an early New England Methodist ancestry, his mother having passed to her heavenly home after a membership in the Methodist Episcopal Church of nearly fifty years. He was soundly converted in New Bedford when in his eighteenth year, and, immediately connecting himself with the old Elm Street (now County Street) Church, became an active worker in the cause of the Master. On June 3, 1852, he married Miss Sarah Jane King, of New Bedford, and subsequently removed to Illinois, expecting to spend his life in secular pursuits. With much reluctance he yielded to the sense of duty and began to preach in fields already white for the harvest. He was licensed in Central Illinois Conference, and in due time admitted to that Conference. He was ordained deacon by Bishop Scott in 1864, and elder by Bishop Simpson in 1866. His first appointments were in the Central Illinois Conference, as follows: Chebanse Circuit, Chatsworth Circuit, Dwight Station, Washington. In 1868 he was transferred to the New England Southern Conference, and stationed at West Duxbury. His later appointments were: Pawtucket, Embury and Thompson churches, Pawtucket; Attleboro, Agent for Providence Conference Seminary, Quarry Street, Fall River; East Weymouth, Grace Church, Taunton; Bristol, St. Paul's, Providence; Stoughton, supernumerary, Wellfleet, supernumerary again. In his last appointment he had a severe attack of the "grip," which so prostrated him that he was unable to continue in the pastorate. Taking a supernumerary relation he moved to West Somerville, where he died. In his death humanity has lost a friend and the Church an untiring, devoted, and successful minister. He left to his widow and two sons the conscious assurance of his unfaltering trust in the truths of the Gospel he had preached to others.

George A. Morse was born in Southbridge, Mass., September 10, 1838, and died in Danielson, Conn., April 24, 1896. When about fourteen he was converted at a camp meeting and early felt called to the ministry. But he rebelled, having seen so much of the hardships of the itinerant's life that he was unwilling to enter upon it. Besides, he felt a strong drawing to the law, and for this spent some time at the East Greenwich Academy, and later at the Hartford High School. While resisting the call to preach his religious life declined, and he became skeptical, but while teaching in Somerset, Mass., he renewed his consecration to God and yielded to the call. At the urgent request of the presiding elder he supplied the church at Tolland, Conn., where he remained two years. In 1863 he was received as a probationer in the New England Southern Conference, and in due time was admitted to full membership and received his ordinations. His appointments were: East Thompson, Eastford, Wapping, Westerly, Colchester and Hebron, Nantucket, Plymouth, Centenary, Provincetown; East Main Street, Norwich; Central, Brockton; First Church, Pawtucket, Wellfleet, North Grosvenordale, Danielson. He entered upon the ministry with all the earnestness of his intense nature. He keenly felt his lack of preparation, but by diligent study made himself so familiar with the Greek and Hebrew that he seldom preached from a text which he had not studied in the original. He was an able and instructive preacher. He thought for himself and was loyal to his own convictions. He was deeply conscientious in all his work. His sermons were addressed to the intellect rather than the emotions, yet there was a tenderness and a pathos in his preaching which were hard to resist. These characteristics, with his genial good nature, gave him a strong hold upon the people. He was successful in winning souls, as the records of the churches which he served will show. He did not give up reading or the preparation of sermons when he retired from the active ministry. After his death there was found on his desk a partially prepared sketch of a sermon on the significant text, "Arise ye, and depart; for this is not your rest." He was a lover of nature. The beautiful in art, in music, and in literature had a charm for him. In several departments of science he was well read; in microscopy he was an expert. During all his sufferings he was abundantly sustained by grace. For five years he stood face to face with death and was not afraid. He often expressed a desire to depart, yet he patiently submitted to the divine will with a heroic purpose while he lived to do what he could for the Master. In the church prayer meetings there was a childlike confidence and earnestness in his prayers and a tender persuasiveness in his testimonies which will long be remembered. In April, 1863, he married Miss Sarah S. Chapman, of Tolland, Conn., who, with a son and daughter, survives him.

William H. Stetson died in Providence, R. I., March 13, 1897. He was born in Boston, Mass., November 14, 1820. In 1840, at the old Bennett Street Church, Boston, he was converted, and in due time was baptized and received into Church membership. He had been trained in a mechanical trade connected with ship-building, then promising to a young man of intelligence and spirit a profitable career. But the new life he had begun gave a new direction to his thought, and he took an exhorter's license at Scituate, to which town his family had removed, and in 1847 entered the Biblical Institute at Concord, N. H., where he pursued a four years' course of study. In 1852 he was received by the New England Southern Conference as a probationer, was ordained deacon by Bishop Waugh, and was stationed at Falmouth, where his labors were crowned with marked results in an extensive revival. From this time for thirty-four years he served appointments above the average rank in all the districts of the Conference, and witnessed many great revivals. In 1874 he was appointed Presiding Elder of the Norwich District, and in 1877 was transferred to the New Bedford District, serving in that office five years. He was a delegate to the General Conference of 1876 at Baltimore. After his retirement from the presiding eldership his physical health and ability to do full work sensibly declined, and in 1891 he became superannuated. Patiently he endured a painful disease, which he knew was wearing him out. He was always cheerful, and maintained an unshaken trust in his Redeemer until he finally fell asleep. He was characterized by a pure and lofty ideal of Christian morality. He was a man of "clean hands and a pure heart," unstained through all his life by smirch or grievous fault. His views were clear, his modes of statement accurate and forceful. He never "shunned to declare all the counsel of God," as he received it. He was swayed by deep conscientiousness, and was impelled by fidelity to his vows, even at the peril of choicest friendship. As a pastor he was zealous for souls, and had his reward in seeing many brought to Christ. He married in 1852 Miss Lucy F. Nye, of Falmouth, Mass., who survives him with one son and three daughters. His life was one of useful service, and of him may be said, "Blessed are the dead who die in the Lord."

Benjamin C. Phelps died in Vernon, Conn., October 1, 1896. He had been a resident of that town twenty-six years, and had received the honors due an esteemed citizen from all classes of the people. He was born in Sand Lake, N. Y., December 4, 1810. His ancestry on this side of the Atlantic is traced for two centuries, and the name has been held in honor for integrity and patriotism. In his infancy his family removed to Somers, Conn., where was the ancestral seat for several generations. At nineteen he was converted in West Woodstock, Conn., and the next year was admitted to the Church in the same town. He passed rapidly through the gradations of exhorter and local preacher, and in 1834 was admitted to probation in the New England Conference. In 1838 and 1840 he was ordained deacon and elder by Bishop Hedding. He was first appointed to South Hadley Circuit. All his subsequent pastorates were within the part of Connecticut embraced in the New England Southern Conference, and several of them were marked by great and successful revivals. In 1842 he went on a whaleship as missionary to the seamen, and labored on the ships in the South Atlantic and Indian Oceans and among the savage inhabitants of the African coast and islands. Returning after two years he continued in pastoral service until 1851, when he located. Having been readmitted in 1857 he was appointed to the chaplaincy of the State prison at Wethersfield, Conn., which office he held until his resignation in October, 1869. In 1870 he was appointed to Vernon. Increasing deafness compelled him in 1871 to take the superannuated relation, and, retiring from public service, he remained in his chosen home, surrounded by kind neighbors, cherished by his affectionate wife, sons, and daughters, cultivating his small homestead and his artistic gifts, until the welcome summons came. He received a violent shock from an accident to his wife, with whom he had passed a happy wedded life of fifty-eight years, and while she was lying unconscious he died of heart failure, being at the moment in conversation with his eldest son and a neighbor. His wife, dying on October 7, never recovered her consciousness, except for one brief moment, and passed from earth unaware that her husband was already awaiting her on the other side in the home above.
